History Program Director, 1990-1992. Established framework for governance in the program, hired part-time faculty, successfully presented history programs to California Commission on Teacher Credentialing for approval as preparation programs (waivers) for history and social studies .

Women's Studies Committee, 1980-89, Director 1986-89, St. Olaf: From 1976-80 I served on an ad hoc women's studies committee which met occasionally and drafted the successful proposal for a women's studies concentration (minor). In 1980 the structure was revised and the committee became an official dean-appointed committee which performed most departmental function. The committee, chaired by the director planned symposia, lectures, did curricular planning and review, decided on film and library purchases, ran regular faculty development workshops, and planned events for majors. During my years on the committee I planned a major symposium, started the annual women's history month programs, planned two summer seminars for faculty, and authored the successful proposal for a women's studies major. We also raised the funds for, and initiated a women's studies prize for senior majors. As director I oversaw a program with 24 majors, 22 minors, 53 affiliated faculty, 33-36 courses taught each year, and a separate budget.

Women's Studies Committee, CSUSM, Director 1990-96, CSUSM: Faculty Committee providing oversight to minor; drafted major and summer faculty development proposal. Set up special events for women's history month, fundraising. The program grew from 6 courses the first year of operation to 55 sections per year with 20 affiliated faculty members.
