PRINT, POWER AND POLITICS

HENRY F. SCHULTE

Here is the tumultuous story of the Spanish periodical press — from its beginnings in 1470, through five centuries of Spain's stormy history, to the "moment of truth" reached under Franco's new, "liberal" Ley de Prensa e Imprenta (Press and Print Law) of 1966 — told by a former United Press International bureau chief and correspondent headquartered in Madrid. Mr. Schulte, now professor of journalism at Pennsylvania State University, combines scholarly research, a newsman's instinct, and a wealth of firsthand information in tracing the development of Spain's Fourth Estate, evaluating its interaction with other parts of the country's political-social order, and assessing its outlook for the future. Special emphasis is given to the role of censorship and government control throughout this history, particularly during the Franco regime. Coming in April. 288 pages. $6.95.

GENERAL INFORMATION

LOCATION: All sessions listed in the Program will be in the Royal York Hotel on Front Street at York, or in the King Edward Sheraton Hotel on King Street just east of Yonge Street. The Professional Register will be in the Lord Simcoe Hotel on King Street at University Avenue. The headquarters and exhibits will be in the Royal York Hotel.

Twelve hundred rooms have been reserved at the Royal York, six hundred at the King Edward, five hundred fifty at the Lord Simcoe, and eight hundred rooms at three other hotels and one motel. Locations, rates, and more detailed instructions are given on the enclosed hotel registration form. All room reservations will be arranged by the Convention and Tourist Bureau of Metropolitan Toronto. Please do not apply direct to the hotel.

TORONTO INFORMATION: There are ample plane, train, and bus connections between Toronto and all centers of population on the continent, but at peak periods many of these may be booked to capacity and consequently it will be advisable to make early reservations.

American currency is generally acceptable in Canada but visitors from the United States are advised to change it for Canadian money at a bank on arrival in order to get the full premium to which they are entitled. While payments at the registration desk may be made in either currency, it will be impossible to allow the premium on American dollars because this would create too great a delay in registration.

American citizens do not need passports to enter Canada but they should carry some form of identification. Naturalized citizens should carry documentary evidence of their citizenship. Visitors to the United States in possession of a single entry visa should check with the United States Immigration and Naturalization Service before leaving the United States.

ASSOCIATED MEETINGS: Several other historical associations are meeting in Toronto in conjunction with the American Historical Association. The Canadian Historical Association is meeting jointly with the A.H.A. in the Royal York and King Edward Hotels with its registration in the King Edward Hotel. The Society for the History of Technology and the History of Science Society are meeting in the Westbury Hotel on Yonge Street above Carlton. The American Catholic Historical Association and the American Society for Church History will hold most of their meetings in the King Edward Hotel; the former will register in the Royal York, the latter in the King Edward.

A.H.A. REGISTRATION: There will be no advance registration for the meeting. The registration badge for admittance to sessions and tickets for luncheons and the dinner listed in this Program may be obtained at the registration desk, located in the Convention Lobby on the Convention Floor of the Royal York. It will be open on Wednesday, December 27, from 3:00 p.m. until 10:00 p.m.; on Thursday, December 28, from 8:00 a.m. until 6:00 p.m.; on Friday, December 29, from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.; and on Saturday, December 30, from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Please fill out the enclosed registration form in advance and present it with a fee of $2.00 at the registration desk. Members are urged to make all payments in Canadian currency since it will be impossible to allow the premium on American bills or checks at the registration desk.

MEAL MEETINGS: All luncheons are priced at $4.25 (Canadian) and the dinner of the Mediæval Academy at $6.00 (Canadian) including gratuities. Tickets desired should be indicated on the enclosed registration form and purchased at the time of registration. Because the Association must give advance notice to the hotel regarding the number to be served at each meal, the early purchase of tickets is essential.

LOCATOR FILE: Names of registered members in attendance and their local addresses while at the meeting will be available at the Locator File in the Convention Lobby of the Royal York.

INFORMATION DESKS AND BULLETIN BOARDS: These will be located in the convention lobbies of both the Royal York and King Edward Hotels.

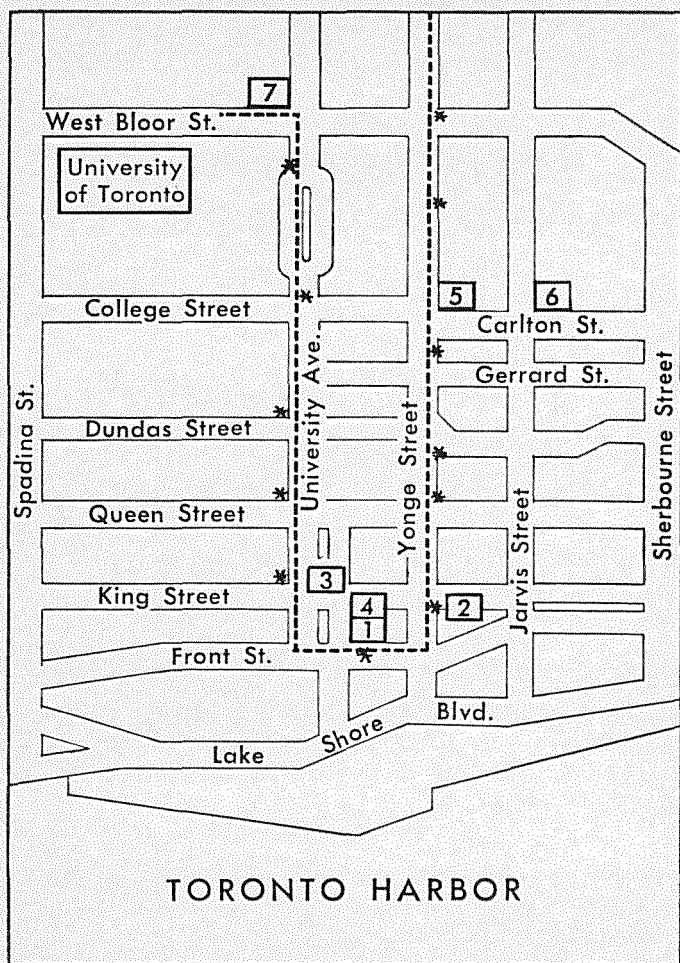

GROUP MEETINGS AND REUNIONS: Some historical societies and groups have arranged special meetings or receptions which cannot be listed in the Program. Mimeographed announcements concerning them will be distributed at the information desks, provided they are supplied to the Local Arrangements Chairman, Professor J. B. Conacher, Department of History, University of Toronto.

Information concerning group reunions such as smokers and breakfasts will be posted on the bulletin boards. All groups desiring to hold gatherings should make arrangements with the catering departments of the Royal York, King Edward, or Lord Simcoe Hotels, sending a copy of the correspondence to the Local Arrangements Chairman at the above address, or, after December 15, c/o American Historical Association, Royal York Hotel.

PROFESSIONAL REGISTER: Throughout the Annual Meeting, the Professional Register will be in operation on the lower floor of the Lord Simcoe Hotel, Salons B and C. Candidates may join the Register or bring their papers up to date at the meeting, if they have not already done so by mail. Prospective employers may review the Register's vita files, and they may also have their staff needs posted. Departmental representatives will further facilitate matters if they notify the Professional Register before the Annual Meeting, by December 11, of their hiring needs.

Candidates and employers alike should list their local addresses with the Professional Register as soon as they arrive in Toronto, because the Register will make every effort to expedite the interviewing process.

Candidates must be A.H.A. members before joining the Register; they pay an initial fee of $3, with an annual renewal of $1. The services of the Register are available to employers without charge. For additional information see the descriptive sheet inserted in the Program, or page 119 of the Program, or the December, 1967 AHA Newsletter.

ORGANIZATION OF

invites you to participate in its awards programs:

THE PELZER MEMORIAL—For the best essay on a subject in American history submitted by a graduate student. The prize consists of publication in The Journal of American History, a bronze medallion and a cash award of $200.

THE FREDERICK JACKSON TURNER—For the best manuscript in American history. The competition is restricted to persons who have not previously published in book form. The prize is a cash award of $1500 and publication as the prize winning manuscript. A special feature of this program is assurance to entrants that their manuscripts will receive preliminary consideration in six weeks. Manuscripts are then either returned or advanced to the final elimination round of the competition. All manuscripts in the final round are assured of publication.

THE BINKLEY-STEPHENSON—A cash prize of $500 for the best scholarly article published in The Journal of American History in each calendar year.

You are invited to join the Organization of American Historians. Membership dues are $8.00 ($4.00 for students) and membership brings you The Journal of American History.

THE KOREAN DECISION

June 24-30, 1950

By Glenn D. Paige, University of Hawaii

Introduction by Richard C. Snyder

The Korean Decision is a full-scale, thoroughly documented reconstruction of the United States' decision to resist aggression in Korea in 1950. The dramatic and historic events are recounted chronologically and in detail. Professor Paige carefully studied the public record and extensively interviewed major participants in the decision. In addition, the author describes the varied circumstances from 1945 to 1950 which provided the antecedent conditions for choice. He evaluates the broader implications of the decision and, more specifically, decision-making at high government levels. The implications and conclusions set forth in this study will shed light on recent United States foreign policy decisions and provide fresh thoughts about a number of recurrent issues.

PHILOSOPHY OF THE AMERICAN CONSTITUTION

A Reinterpretation of the Intentions of the Founding Fathers

By Paul Eidelberg, North Carolina State University

This volume is an articulate and comprehensive re-examination of the original sources of political philosophy as they are embodied in the United States Constitution. It is a philosophical exposition of the original constitution which reconstructs the debates of the Constitutional Convention of 1787. Professor Eidelberg examines carefully the existing interpretations of the Constitution and elucidates the wisdom and shortcomings of the Founders, showing the relevance of their thought to the problems of our time. In addition, he illuminates some of the causes of the decline in American political life and suggests possible remedies.

MONEY AND AMERICAN SOCIETY: 1865-1880

By Walter T. K. Nugent, Indiana University

Focusing on the money question, this book describes the changing social structure of the United States during the 15 years following the Civil War. Money and American Society examines the reactions of various ideological, economic, sectional, and political groups to the beginnings of industrialization and their changing alignments. Throughout, the author shows the international influences on the United States' public policy on money.

INTERPRETATIONS OF AMERICAN HISTORY
Patterns and Perspectives

Edited, with introductions, by Gerald N. Grob and George A. Billias, both of Clark University

Bringing together scholarly selections that approach American history from an analytical point of view, these two original paperbound texts provide an interpretive framework for the entire span of American history. Organized in two volumes, Volume I covers through 1877; Volume II repeats the final chapter of Volume I and examines the period from 1865 to the present.

AMERICAN IDEAS

Source Readings in the Intellectual History of the United States

Edited by Gerald N. Grob and Robert N. Beck, both of Clark University

This comprehensive anthology presents the works of those Americans who have made important contributions to our country's native intellectual tradition. From each period of our history, the editors offer the works of religious leaders, men of letters, economic and political thinkers, philosophers, statesmen, reformers, historians, and social scientists.

PATHS TO THE ANCIENT PAST

Applications of the Historical Method to Ancient History

By Tom B. Jones, University of Minnesota

Paths to the Ancient Past is an original text presenting the historical method as it is applied to ancient history. It encourages students to further their exploration of the historian's methods by examining such questions as how the historian recreates the past, the values and limitations of archaeology, and contributions of ancient documents.

ENGLISH HISTORY IN THE MAKING, Volume I

WILLIAM L. SACHSE, UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN

These source materials have been selected and arranged to provide students with relevant and comprehensible extracts to supplement the treatment of English history usually found in college textbooks. From the great mass of existing materials on English history, dating from the earliest times to the Glorious Revolution, the author focuses attention on the more important issues and developments in English civilization—political, constitutional, economic, social, and intellectual. The over-all organization is chronological, but a topical presentation is employed within each of the five major periods covered.

TURNING POINTS IN AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL HISTORY

DAVID B. TYACK, UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

This book illuminates for the reader eleven major turning points in American educational history. Interpretive essays introduce selected contemporary sources: autobiographies, speeches, descriptions by schoolmen and journalists, vignettes by foreign observers, letters, laws, and a variety of first-hand accounts. Taken collectively, the essays and integrated sources offer an examination in depth of our varied educational heritage, its achievements and its problems. The book does not provide set answers; rather, it discloses questions worthy of exploration and discussion. The focus throughout is on the privilege and burden of choice, both in the past and in the present.

HISTORY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES:

New Approaches to the Teaching of Social Studies

MARK M. KRUG, UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

This text presents a new rationale for the social studies that allows innovations and experimentation without undermining the integrity of history, geography, and the social science disciplines. Specific proposals for new ways to make the teaching of social studies more effective should be of particular interest to college instructors and to practicing and prospective teachers in the field of social studies.

A HISTORY OF MODERN ENGLAND, From the Eighteenth Century to the Present

R. K. WEBB, Columbia University. Spring 1968. About 608 pp. Maps. Paperback.

"A genuinely important and useful synthesis of modern British history. The organization is sound, the manuscript is beautifully written, and it has taken account of the latest research." DAVID OWEN, Harvard University

"An excellent book which I shall most certainly adopt in my own courses at Wisconsin. It sets the right tone for an undergraduate text, neither talking down to the students nor overpowering them with academic learning. There is a judicious balancing of the overall narrative against illustrative detail: the wood is never obscured by the trees." J. F. C. HARRISON, University of Wisconsin

EUROPE AND THE WORLD SINCE 1939

F. ROY WILLIS, University of California, Davis. 480 pages. Paper. Illustrations and maps. First volume, 576 pp., $5.50; second volume, 620 pp., $5.75. These volumes offer a broad documentary survey designed as supplementary reading for the "History of Western Civilization" course. The volumes are distinctive for breadth and depth of coverage and length of selections. The emphasis is broadly cultural and humanistic, including healthy selections from the works of the great seminal minds of the past without neglecting the important political and diplomatic materials. The volumes present a European and not merely western European spectrum. Spring 1968

EUROPE SINCE 1500: A Paperbound Series

Each of the books in this series focuses upon a central theme or issue that has presented European historians with problems of interpretation. The volumes have all been written by specialists on the topics covered, and in every case the author has reached his conclusions after weighing the evidence of recent scholarship. To guide students engaged in further research, each volume contains a critical essay on sources and authorities. Designed for use in both survey courses and period courses, the series will comprise a resource from which European history teachers may select titles to meet their specific needs. Volumes covering the entire span of modern European history are planned.

THE STRUCTURE OF EUROPEAN HISTORY SERIES

edited by

Norman F. Cantor, Brandeis University and Michael Werthman

This new paperbound series is designed to lead students to an understanding of European history through the reading of substantial selections of the great historical works of our time. Each volume contains long excerpts from five books that develop leading interpretations of fundamental political, economic, social, and intellectual change from the advent of civilization to the present day. In the headnotes to each selection, the editors define the problem, identify the author, examine his methods and assumptions, and establish his interpretation within the historiography of the subject. The six volumes are devoted to the following periods of European history: ANCIENT CIVILIZATION: 4000 B.C.-400 A.D.; MEDIEVAL SOCIETY: 400-1450; EARLY MODERN EUROPE: 1450-1650; THE FULFILLMENT AND COLLAPSE OF THE OLD REGIME: 1650-1815; THE MAKING OF THE MODERN WORLD: 1815-1914; and THE TWENTIETH CENTURY: 1914 to the present.

HOW TO STUDY HISTORY

by Norman F. Cantor, Brandeis University and Richard I. Schneider, York University (Toronto)

This book, which introduces undergraduates to all aspects of history from the introductory to the advanced level, is intended primarily for students in basic survey courses, but it will prove invaluable for history majors, potential graduate students, or anyone enrolled in a history course. Here, for the first time, is a book that will serve as a practical guide to the nature and requirements of the discipline. Included is sound advice on: The use of primary and secondary sources; the uses of textbooks and the taking of lecture notes; the uses of the library and the taking of notes for research; the writing of examinations, book reviews, essays and papers; the use of good English and style in historical writing; and the preparation of an undergraduate history program.

THE PRACTICE OF HISTORY

by G. R. Elton, University of Cambridge

This volume, which is intended for students of historiography as well as history majors and graduate students, discusses four aspects of the discipline—the purpose of history, historical research, historical writing, and the teaching of history.

THE AMERICAN WEST: A SOURCE BOOK

edited by Clark C. Spence, University of Illinois

This collection of contemporary source readings has been compiled with two aims: first, to explain the broad line of trans-Mississippi exploration, settlement, and growth; second, to illustrate the many facets of everyday life and thought so that students will understand how life really was in the American West.

THE CROWELL AMERICAN HISTORY SERIES

edited by Abraham S. Eisenstadt, Brooklyn College and

John Hope Franklin, University of Chicago

Each of the books in this series focuses upon a central theme or issue that has presented American historians with problems of interpretation. The volumes have all been written by specialists on the topics covered, and in every case the author has reached his conclusions after weighing the evidence of recent scholarship. To aid students in further research, each volume contains a critical essay on sources and authorities. Designed for use in both survey courses and period courses, the series will comprise a resource of interpretative writings from which American history teachers may select titles to meet their specific needs. Volumes covering the entire span of American history from the Colonial Period to the present, are planned.

CROWELL SOURCE READERS IN AMERICAN HISTORY

edited by David Brody, Ohio State University

The purpose of this series is to acquaint students of American history with one of the most important tasks of the historian—the evaluation of historical evidence. Each of the volumes contains a solid body of such evidence; the documents chosen are among the most pertinent and immediate available on the topic covered. The editors of the volumes have selected documents that not only focus on central issues, but are also lengthy enough to provide a basis for a thorough study of these issues. Introductory essays that set the issues in their historical context are included in each volume, and each section is preceded by a headnote that relates the documents to the theme of the section.

THE EUROPEAN WORLD

A History

JEROME BLUM, Princeton University; RONDO CAMERON, University of Wisconsin; THOMAS G. BARNES, University of California, Berkeley

Available in one complete volume and in a two-volume edition

"The European world . . . is more than a matter of numbers and geography. It is a concept of civilization. It includes European culture in the Western Hemisphere and also outposts of European culture in Asia, Africa, and Australasia. The history of the European world, in short, is the history of Western Civilization." —from the authors' Introduction

- Strong economic emphasis
- Illustrates social and cultural aspects
- Excellent coverage of Eastern Europe
- Includes history of Science

Comments on The European World:

An extremely impressive book. Undoubtedly the best textbook in its field currently available.

William Sims, University of Texas

Although focused on Europe, the work gives proper recognition to the developing world beyond Europe, especially in the Twentieth Century.

Edgar Topin, Virginia State College

AMERICAN EPOCH

A History of the United States Since the 1890's by ARTHUR S. LINK, Princeton University and WILLIAM B. CATTON, Middlebury College, with the assistance of WILLIAM M. LEARY, Jr.,
Princeton University

Knopf, 1967; Volume I: 1890-1921; 288 pages; $2.95
Volume II: 1921-1941; 320 pages; $3.25
Volume III: 1938-1966; 464 pages; $3.50

A revision of this intensive history of the United States since 1890 is now available in three paperbound volumes, as well as the single-volume hardbound edition. These volumes offer a detailed analysis of the cultural, social and economic events and movements of recent years, which in turn explain the nation's rise to its current position in the world power structure. Each volume has separate bibliography, index and prefatory material.

The revised hardbound edition of this text is also available.

Venetia Redeemed

Franco-Italian Relations, 1864-1866

John W. Bush, S.J.

This meticulously researched scholarly work fills an important gap in the available material on nineteenth-century French history. Based on primary sources, it analyzes the efforts of Napoleon III to assist the Kingdom of Italy in gaining the province of Venetia, the penultimate stage in Italy's unification.

The intertwined military and diplomatic relations in the passing of Venetia from Austria to France and then to Italy also involved Prussia, and had consequences affecting Europe for decades. This study traces the complex history before, during, and after the war of 1866.

The author is Chairman of the History Department at LeMoyné College, and a specialist in French history. $6.00

Charlemagne's Cousins

Contemporary Lives of Adelard and Wala

Translated and edited by Allen Cabaniss

The two half-brothers, Adelard and Wala, were among Charlemagne's most intimate advisers. Eminent theologians, they were in succession abbots of the great monastery of Corbie. Their involvement in the political life of the court of Louis the Pious, Charlemagne's son and successor, was complex and significant.

This is the first translation into English of the biographies of the two men written by their friend and fellow theologian Radbertus. The biographer's close knowledge of the activities of the two brothers and of the monastic, educational, and political life of the period, enlivened by his eye for vivid detail, makes this a book of unusual historical interest.

Professor Cabaniss provides an illuminating introduction to the Vitae, and has fully annotated the biographies. $7.50

THE MAKING OF MODERN MAN

From The Renaissance To The Present

By Louis L. Snyder, The City University of New York

This is a basic text covering the development of Western civilization from 1500 to the present day. The book stresses the economic, social, political, cultural, religious, and psychological approaches to historical understanding. The author treats in detail what he calls "the 'isms' of modern time"—absolutism, conservatism, romanticism, nationalism, liberalism, socialism, imperialism, and racialism.

The book is divided into seven parts; each part opens with an Era Theme, an introductory essay by such outstanding authorities as Toynbee, Bossuet, McIlwain, and Mill. Integrated within many of the chapters is a subsection entitled "Historical Controversy." This is a feature which quotes leading historians whose views often appear to be diametrically opposed and is designed to show the student the wide range of scholarly opinion that can exist on a single historical question. Each chapter closes with a Key Document which is significant to the topic of the chapter, a brief Historical Interpretation by a leading historian, and a book list which the author has limited to ten of the basic best-received books on the subject.

THE ESSENCE OF CHINESE CIVILIZATION

Edited by Dun J. Li. Paterson State College (New Jersey).
1967, 496 pages, $4.95 Paper and $7.95 Cloth.

This volume of translations spans the broad perspective of the Chinese cultural system for a period of 3,000 years. To show "traditional China as it was," Professor Li has divided the material into four main topics: Philosophy and Religion; Government; Economics; and Family and Society. Each division contains anecdotes, sketches, casual observations, and personal letters as well as traditional materials from the Confucian classics and the dynastic histories.

OUT OF THE LABYRINTH

Ten essays clarify a single problem—the identification of that which “may be considered permanent in man,” and that which changes in his evolutionary development. Kahler, now a visiting professor at Princeton, asserts this clarification is essential to the preservation of what is human in man. When scientific advances outstrip man’s psychic advances, man loses his sense of history and his sense of the evolution of human conditions—both essential for human equilibrium. Contents: Culture and Evolution; Science and History; The Persistence of Myth; The Reality of Utopia; The Nature of the Symbol; What Is Art; Art and History; Varieties of the Unconscious; The Disintegration of Artistic Form; The True, the Good and the Beautiful.

THE POLITICAL CREATURE

An Evolutionary Reorientation

The basic principles of modern physics, biology, and evolutionary theory enjoy virtually universal acceptance, while their relevance to social and political theory is rarely recognized. In The Political Creature Peter Zollinger, a distinguished scientist, humanist, and political correspondent, aims “in a scientifically justifiable way, to integrate what is known regarding the world of political civilization into the general framework of modern evolutionary science, to break down the ancient superstition that the world of civilized man stands outside the general world order, or that he lives in a hermetically sealed domain within ‘nature.’” The focal point of the investigation is evolutionary theory interpreted in the light of Bohr’s complementarity principle, which Zollinger sees as the most fundamental principle not only of atomic and molecular evolution, but of social and political evolution as well.

THE NATIONAL EXPERIENCE: A History of the United States Second Edition

by JOHN M. BLUM, BRUCE CATTON,
EDMUND S. MORGAN, ARTHUR M. SCHLESINGER, JR.,
KENNETH M. STAMPP, and C. VANN WOODWARD

Coming in January . . . Of signal importance to professors of American history is the forthcoming publication of The National Experience, Second Edition. The many instructors who have used this one-volume survey in their introductory classes will find in the revision the same sound scholarship, comprehensive coverage, and consistently high level of analysis—features that established The National Experience as a leading textbook in its field.

Beginning with the earliest explorations of North America and ending with an evaluation of the first four years of the Johnson administration, The National Experience presents a well-integrated treatment of American social, economic, intellectual, and political history. The book focuses on the shifting patterns of public policy—the manner in which government at all levels reflects the attitudes and needs of the community and, in turn, influences the welfare and behavior of the community. Because the history of public policy demands a continuing discussion of the culture that produces it, this emphasis provides an unusually complete interpretation of American history.

The Second Edition, like its celebrated predecessor, represents a genuinely collaborative effort by six distinguished historians. The authors—each an authority on the period with which he deals—have incorporated throughout the findings of the latest historical research. Substantial new material has been added on events of the past five years; in addition, all bibliographies have been updated, new boxed inserts have been included, and the illustrations have been revised. The book has also been completely redesigned and reset, and a new 16-page, full-color insert has been added. 912 pages, $9.95 (probable). Publication: January 1968

INSTRUCTOR'S MANUAL. Prepared by Raymond H. Robinson, Northeastern University. This 160-page manual provides a summary, suggested lecture topics, and a list of audio-visual aids for each chapter of the textbook.

TEST ITEMS. Prepared by Farrel Broslawsky and Lawrence Jorgenson, Los Angeles Valley College. The booklet includes 30 multiple-choice, six short-answer, and six essay questions for each chapter. Alternate test items will be available.

Readings in American History

Edited by ROBERT L. MIDDLEKAUFF and LAWRENCE W. LEVINE

The 24 essays in this collection illuminate important issues in American history in an unusual and refreshing manner. Rather than duplicate the basic textbook or the many other collections of readings available, the editors have chosen articles that bear on American social and cultural development—among them, literary essays, political analyses, and sociological studies. An introduction to each selection is provided.

Paperbound. 448 pages, $4.50 (probable)

Publication: Spring 1968

HANDBOOK OF AMERICAN HISTORY

by DONALD B. COLE

An introductory survey, a convenient reference, and a concise review, the Handbook presents in chronological order the important facts of American history from discovery to 1967. The primary emphasis is on political events, but entries on social, economic, and cultural history are also included. There are schematic biographies of historical personalities, numerous statistical tables, and over 40 maps (including 7 full-page maps).

Paperbound. 320 pages, $3.50 (probable)

Publication: Spring 1968

THE CHANGING ECONOMIC ORDER

Readings in American Economic and Business History

Edited by ALFRED D. CHANDLER, JR.,
STUART BRUCHEY, and LOUIS GALAMBOS

To help the student understand what the basic American economic institutions are today and how they have evolved, this collection of secondary sources focuses on men and institutions most directly involved in the production of goods and services. The selections describe and analyze the actions of manufacturers, merchants, laborers, farmers, government officials, and others who developed new institutions and new patterns of economic behavior. The editors have included introductions to the selections.

Paperbound. 512 pages, $4.50 (probable)

A BRIEF HISTORY OF WESTERN MAN

by THOMAS H. GREER

Announcing for January publication . . . Intended as the core book in Western civilization and humanities courses, this new textbook provides a compact, readable account of the major events, institutions, ideas, and creative works that have shaped and expressed Western civilization. Concentrating on a balanced treatment of political, social, intellectual, and cultural history, the author has selected for thorough coverage the most significant experiences of Western man, coordinating artistic and literary events with political and social developments. The book's brevity, balance, and clarity of style and organization make it a most flexible basic book, easily combined with primary or secondary readings of the instructor's choice. A two-page time chart precedes each of the four parts of the book; also included are 68 halftones and 18 maps.

Paperbound. 608 pages, $4.95 (probable)

Publication: January 1968

EUROPE IN THE MIDDLE AGES

Second Edition

by ROBERT S. HOYT

A chronological narrative of political history from the decline of Rome to 1500, this widely adopted textbook emphasizes the culture of the period and the distinctive characteristics of the origin, growth, culmination, and decline of medieval civilization. The Second Edition includes the latest findings of historical research as well as 75 new photographs and line drawings and numerous maps and diagrams.

THE CRITICAL HISTORIAN

G. Kitson Clark

One of the eminent historians of the English-speaking world, G. Kitson Clark, has written a book which will take its place alongside Allan Nevins' Gateway to History and Marc Bloch's Historian's Craft as a classic introduction, for layman and student, to the study of history. The author directs his attention to the training of the critical historian by introducing those methods which historical scholarship has developed in the last one and a half centuries.

Patterns in American History Volumes I and II

These continuously successful volumes designed for a basic survey course in American history provide the reader with provocative selections not usually found in other compilations. Extensive editorial commentary helps the student understand how American history can be analyzed through unified topics or patterns. 1965. Volume I: 512 pp. Volume II: 640 pp. 6 × 9. Paperbound.

THE EDITORS: Alexander Deconde is Chairman and Professor of History at the University of California, Santa Barbara. Armin Rappaport is Professor of History at the University of California, Berkeley. William R. Steckel is Professor of History and head of the American Studies Program at the University of Wyoming.

American Diplomacy and the Sense of Destiny

Volume I, The Initial Thrust: 1885—1900

Volume II, In the World Arena: 1901—1918

Volume III, Withdrawal and Engagement: 1919—1941

Volume IV, War and Challenge: 1942—1966

This four-volume series documents America's involvement in world affairs since 1885. The editors go beyond the conventional sequence-of-events approach to concern themselves with attitudes toward foreign policy through manifestations of popular opinion drawn from such generally ignored sources as poetry and songs and other literary materials. 1966. Volume I: 146 pp. Volume II: 96 pp. Volume III: 152 pp. Volume IV: 176 pp. 6 × 9. Paperbound.

THE EDITORS: Perry E. Gianakos and Albert Karson are Associate Professors of American Thought and Language at Michigan State University.

The New Technology and Human Values

Edited by John G. Burke, Assistant Professor of History, University of California at Los Angeles. 1966. 416 pp. 6 × 9. Paperbound. Discussion leader's guide.

EUROPE, 1880-1945

JOHN M. ROBERTS, Merton College, Oxford

The core of this book, the latest addition to the General History of Europe series, is an examination of the process by which Europe, while displaying a great deal of vitality and creativity, failed to solve many of her own problems and therefore deployed many of her energies in self-destruction. Europe's suicidal proneness to internecine struggle after 1914 resulted in a dwarfing of Europe and the loss of her world power.

A Major New Work On American History

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

Volumes I and II

OSCAR HANDLIN, Charles Warren Professor of History,
Harvard University

Written by one of America's most distinguished historians, this work provides a fresh and stimulating interpretation of American history from the colonial period to the present. Through a consideration of the social, cultural, economic, and political facets of America's development as a nation, Professor Handlin provides the student with a framework for understanding the present in terms of the story of the past. There are numerous quotations from original sources, biographical sketches of leading historical figures, illustrations, and maps. Instructor's manuals are available for both volumes.

"Combines balanced treatment with literary excellence. This (book) is aimed, quite obviously, at the college textbook market, but it deserves a wider audience. Mr. Garraty does a superb job of synthesis of the American experience. . . . His book also benefits from its clear and useful maps and tables, and from a judicious use of illustrations which give added dimension to the story. It deserves a place in the libraries of professional historians and the general public. It demonstrates that history, even in textbooks, need not be dull." History News

The American Nation

A HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

John A. Garraty

This successful text is characterized by the personality, perspective, objective, and style of one author. Based on the latest research in the field, The American Nation focuses on themes in American history which lend clarity and perspective to the social and economic issues of today. This text, covering the history of the United States from its exploration to the present, is the first to transcend the administration-by-administration treatment of post-World War II days. Events are illuminated and distinguished through dramatization. Economic data makes use of statistics from 1965 and 1966. Recent developments in the Great Society, including social and economic matters, and the new implications of the 1966 Congressional elections, civil rights, Vietnam, and other areas are examined. Specific examples and revealing quotations from source material and key secondary works are cited. Heavily illustrated. A joint publication of Harper & Row and American Heritage Publishing Company, Inc. 920 pp; $11.00

Student's Guide to accompany The American Nation, by Philip H. Jordan, Jr., presents an outline of each chapter, pivotal passages from the text, quotations from the sources, and factual and interpretative questions for study. Also includes aids to map analysis, review exercises, and exercises to accompany the picture essays. 380 pp; $3.50

Instructor's Manual to accompany The American Nation, by Philip H. Jordan, Jr., with Patrick J. Abbazia, offers a brief recapitulation and analysis of each chapter, suggestions for lectures and teaching discussion groups, objective and essay questions for examinations, topics for student reports and papers, and a suggested plan for use of picture essays in class.

WESTERN CIVILIZATION

VOL. I: PALEOLITHIC MAN TO THE CONVERGENCE
OF EUROPEAN POWERS

VOL. II: THE STRUGGLE FOR EMPIRE TO EUROPE
IN THE MODERN WORLD

William L. Langer, General Editor

Paul MacKendrick

Deno J. Geanakoplos

J. H. Hexter

Richard E. Pipes

a joint publication of

Harper & Row, Publishers and American Heritage Publishing Co., Inc.

This new text for Western civilization courses offers the undergraduate student an authoritative record of the history of Western man from 600,000 B.C. to the mid-twentieth century A.D. Through their analysis and interpretation of basic factual material, the authors present an integrated, comparative narrative of the political, intellectual, economic, and social development of the Western world as a whole, considering each event and phenomenon as part of a broader pattern of the interaction of culture, societies, and nations.

These two volumes offer a fuller treatment than any similar work of the archaeological evidence of earliest man, of the Near Eastern history of Western civilization, of the development of religious institutions, of the rise of modern science, and of the history of Eastern Europe. The growth of Western civilization is illustrated through more than 800 pictures, maps, and charts, and eleven full-color portfolios which lend themselves to the visual recreation of an era and its people. Coming Winter 1968.

Available for use with each volume will be an Instructor's Manual. Each Instructor's Manual will contain the following teaching aids: a program of teaching objectives for each chapter; visual aids, keyed to lecture notes and to the portfolios; a major class discussion project for each chapter; feedback exercises for end-of-chapter reviews; reference bibliographies; unit, mid-term, and final exams.

New in 1968 from Macmillan

The United States of America: A History, Second Edition

By Dexter Perkins and Glyndon G. Van Deusen

The revised Second Edition of this widely respected text reconstructs the history of America from the discovery of the New World through the administration of Lyndon B. Johnson. The theme is the development of institutions and ways of life. The emphasis is on politics and economics, but social, intellectual, and diplomatic history (rarely stressed in a general text) have been artfully integrated into the narrative. Appendices furnish the text of the Constitution, population tables, election statistics, lists of state admissions, presidents, cabinet members, and Supreme Court justices.

Readings in American History, Second Edition

Edited by Glyndon G. Van Deusen, and
Herbert J. Bass, Temple University

In the enlarged Second Edition of this widely adopted two-volume collection for introductory courses, new selections from the works of writers such as Galbraith, Schlesinger and Morison illuminate the formative years of the republic, the internal tensions that brought Civil War, the war with Spain, the economic collapse of 1929, and the Cuban Missile Crisis. The historians represented hold 17 Pulitzer, 10 Bancroft, and 3 Parkman prizes. Each volume now offers different materials on the Reconstruction Era.

Colonial America, Second Edition

By Oscar T. Barck, Jr., Syracuse University; and Hugh T. Lefler, The University of North Carolina

Incorporating the latest scholarship, the new edition of this widely respected text traces the history of the United States from discovery and colonization to the adoption of the Constitution. Unusually complete coverage of social and cultural history, with emphasis on the daily life of people, makes this text an especially effective teaching instrument for advanced undergraduate students. New maps, illustrations, footnotes, and a new bibliography have been added.

Since 1900: A History of the United States in Our Times, Fourth Edition

By Oscar T. Barck, Jr., and Nelson M. Blake, Syracuse University

This is the Fourth Edition of a respected textbook on twentieth century American history. It provides a thorough coverage of political, social, and diplomatic history including a discussion of the significant problem areas of today such as civil rights, space exploration, the economy and the election of 1964. The readable style, unbiased presentation, and the use of meaningful illustrations make this the most useful text in its field.

The American Past: Conflicting Interpretations of the Great Issues, Second Edition

Edited by Sidney Fine and Gerald S. Brown, both of The University of Michigan

Highly praised for its approach—the pairing of diverging interpretations of major issues in the nation's history—this book continues to provide exceptional examples of historical writing. The articles are drawn from historical journals, periodicals of a more general nature, plus monographs and other works, many of which are inaccessible to students. This edition contains many new selections that not only sharpen the focus of conflict but also keep students abreast of the most recent scholarship.

An Important New Text from Macmillan

THE HISTORY OF POPULAR CULTURE

Edited by Norman F. Cantor, Brandeis University, and Michael S. Werthman

For your introductory course, as supplementary reading—two unique paperbound volumes that are designed to show students the significant influence of leisure on human history. The collection provides a sweeping description of the range of man's cultural activities.

The entertainments and diversions of people at all social levels are described and analyzed; among topics receiving detailed attention are family structure, religious beliefs, sexual relationships, music, theatre, art, literature, fashion, home furnishing, and mass communication.

Drawing from more than 150 studies in social and cultural history, the book consists of seven chapters which consider chronologically major periods of Western civilization. Topics are organized within each chapter to encourage cross-cultural reference and facilitate assignment either by period or topical theme.

Significant texts in History

Europe in the Twentieth Century

By Andreas Dorpalen, Ohio State University

Emphasizing a supra-national approach, this text provides an accurate perspective on the common experiences and essential differences demonstrated by the European nations of the twentieth century. The book discusses important political, social, economic and cultural developments and devotes careful attention to United States-European relationships. Recent developments, such as the Gaullist concept of Europe, the West German market economy, and the era of Breshnev and Kosygin, are considered.

1968, approx. 720 pages, prob. $8.95

The Course of Russian History, Third Edition

By Melvin C. Wren, University of Toledo

This text combines a chronological and topical approach in order to provide the student with a comprehensive background in Russian history from pre-Slavic and pre-Greek times to the present. Events before 1917 are presented clearly in chronological order; material since 1917 is organized topically, with chapters on the political, economic, and social structure of modern Russia. Chapters on World War II, the Cold War, and Soviet foreign relations draw upon the most recent Western and Soviet scholarship. Maps, illustrations, and Suggested Reading lists are included.

The Civilization of the West: A Brief Interpretation

By James M. Powell, Syracuse University

"The study of Western civilization is no mere exercise in nostalgia for a lost past. Rather . . . we must study Western civilization to understand the basic forces shaping the new world toward which we are moving."

—from the Preface

A brief, interpretive survey of Western civilization from its origins to the present day, this work reflects current trends in the interpretation of history. Cultural and political materials are used to form the basis for a study of social, intellectual, and economic forces that have shaped civilization. A chapter on historiography opens the book. Special emphasis is placed on the development of the Nation States as the characteristic political form in the West; non-Western material is included where relevant. More than 100 unusual and significant illustrations and 20 full-page maps enrich the book.

WESTERN CIVILIZATIONS

by Edward McNall Burns

Burns' Western Civilizations is the established authority. Each new edition has incorporated significant current interpretations, making Burns an always authoritative yet concise history text.

Now the Seventh Edition of Western Civilizations reflects the most extensive revision undertaken by the distinguished author.

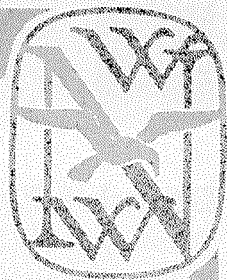

- Almost every page has been rewritten. Each page, paragraph, sentence, illustration, map, and chronological table has been reviewed by specialists in various fields, bringing the text into line with the most recent historical scholarship.
- A new introductory section has been included to orient the student toward his own reading and the method utilized by the historian.
- Black-and-white maps have been completely redrawn.
- Twenty-one new, full color maps have been added.
- New, larger photographs have been included, both in color and black and white, making graphic the principal themes and movements of history.
- Bibliographies have been updated, with emphasis on paperbacks.
- The text has been completely reset and redesigned for greater clarity and ease in studying.

Unquiet Eagle

*Memory and Desire
in the Idea of American
Freedom, 1815-1860*

By FRED SOMKIN. This provocative study challenges the popular view that the crucial period between the death of the Founding Fathers and the Civil War was one of unqualified optimism and faith in progress. Focusing upon the extended visit of the Marquis de Lafayette in 1824, the author describes the nation's futile attempts to retain the ideals of the past while embarking on an era of unprecedented prosperity.

Elizabethans Errant

*The Strange Fortunes of Sir Thomas Sherley and
His Three Sons*

By D. W. DAVIES. With wit and urbanity Mr. Davies reconstructs the lives of a family of Elizabethan rogues, weaving together strands of information from manuscript collections located throughout Europe — many of them sources that have been hitherto untapped. The astonishing tale that results links the notorious Sherleys to the great events and issues of their day and captures the flavor of Elizabethan moral, social, and political affairs.

Israel on the Road to Sinai

*A Small State
in a Test of Power*

By ERNEST STOCK. As history repeats itself in the Near East much can be gained from a backward look at the causes and the results of the Sinai Campaign of October, 1956. Ernest Stock's incisive study focuses on Israel's foreign policy leading up to that campaign. The objectives of Israeli policy, the means employed to achieve them, and the policy's global as well as regional implications are analyzed in depth. A final chapter takes into account the June, 1967, conflict and the political developments since Israel's military victory. 254 pages. $6.50

By WILLIAM HARRISON. Edited by GEORGES EDELEN. In his Description of Britain and Description of England, written as introductory books to Holinshed's Chronicles (1577, 1587), William Harrison intended a total portrait of mid-Elizabethan England, the land and the people. This edition, the first in more than seventy-five years, contains all The Description of England (except four historical digressions) and sections of The Description of Britain that are relevant to social and intellectual history. For the first time a full index and extensive annotations are provided. A Folger Document of Tudor and Stuart Civilization. Frontispiece.

RECENT AND FORTHCOMING

READINGS IN ENGLISH HISTORY

Edited by Arvel B. Erickson and Martin J. Havran. This new collection of readings contains excerpts taken exclusively from primary sources which span the history of England from pre-Norman Britain to the England of Prime Minister Wilson. The selections have been arranged within each of the chronological chapters into units dealing with personalities, politics, religion, and economic, social, foreign, and military affairs. There are editors' comments throughout the book, as well as complete bibliographies at the end of each chapter. With a foreword by A. L. Rowse. Fall, 1967. 452 pages. Paper. $3.95

A HISTORY OF ENGLAND, Third Edition

By Goldwin Smith. The lucid, vigorous style and impeccable scholarship which distinguished its earlier editions remain the hallmark of A HISTORY OF ENGLAND. For the third edition the last two chapters have been completely rewritten, the text and bibliographies have been revised and thoroughly updated, many new pictures have been added, and some of the maps have been redrawn. 1966. 932 pages. 130 illustrations. 21 maps. $8.75

A new, two-volume edition . . .

PROBLEMS IN WESTERN CIVILIZATION: The Challenge of History

Volume I: The Ancient World Through the Age of Absolutism

Volume II: From the Enlightenment to the Present

Edited by Frederick Schaefer, David Henry Fowler, and Jacob Ernest Cooke. This popular text has now been made available in two volumes. For this edition it has been reorganized and new textual material, photographs, charts, and illustrations have been added. Each chapter focuses on a significant historical problem and is divided into parts which contain editorial introductions, documents, and readings by historians on various aspects of the issue. Each section has a list of sources and sets of questions which suggest lines of study. Spring, 1968. Each volume about 500 pages. Paper. About $4.25 each. One-volume edition, 1965. 841 pages. Paper. $6.95

MORAVIANS IN TWO WORLDS

GILLIAN LINDT GOLLIN

A comparison of two Moravian settlements—one in Herrnhut, Saxony, and one in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania—and their adjustment to outside social forces in the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries. Mrs. Gollin demonstrates that a utopian community cannot be rigidly maintained within a society, but that it can and does make social and economic contributions to that society. A 1965 Bancroft Award winner. $8.75

PERSPECTIVES ON BRAZILIAN HISTORY

E. BRADFORD BURNS, Editor

A collection of nine essays, translated into English for the first time, stressing the historians and historiographical trends of Brazil since independence. The editor expands the original notes and contributes an introductory survey of colonial chroniclers and historians as well as a valuable bibliographical review of the material on the subject. One of the series sponsored by the Institute for Latin American Studies at Columbia University. $7.50

THE YOUNGER JOHN WINTHROP

ROBERT C. BLACK, III

The first full-length biography of the many-talented founder of Connecticut, and one of the most personable and remarkable men in Colonial America. The son of the founder of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, John Winthrop, Jr. was a politician who practiced medicine, a businessman whose scientific experiments made him the first North American elected to the Royal Society, and the governor of Connecticut who maintained close personal and intellectual ties in Europe. CENTRAL ASIA: A CENTURY OF RUSSIAN RULE

EDWARD ALLWORTH,
Editor and Contributing Author

"An authoritative and informative work . . . Several of the contributions, interspersed through the volume, trace the history of Central Asia since medieval times, emphasizing the Russian penetration and conquest of the region. Other chapters are well-rounded treatments of the land and peoples, population characteristics and linguistic patterns, economic developments and features, and literature and music. For anyone interested in Central Asia, past and present, Allworth's volume is indispensable."—Library Journal $12.95

THE EMERGENCE OF PAKISTAN CHAUDHRI MUHAMMAD ALI

"The Pakistan viewpoint of events leading up to independence and partition of the Indian sub-continent and the early struggles of the new Pakistan government are here ably set forth by a respected former Prime Minister of Pakistan."—Library Journal. Chaudhri Muhammad Ali analyzes the roots of his country's difficulties; the hostile attitude of its Indian neighbors, and the natural problems arising out of the lack of qualified government personnel. $11.00

A HISTORY OF BURMA MAUNG HTIN AUNG

Surrounded by three Asian giants—China, India, and Pakistan—Burma has not always been able to maintain her identity, and her history has therefore been intimately tied in with that of the powers surrounding her. In the past, most histories of Burma have been written by Englishmen. Now a native Burmese scholar provides a delightful account of his country from her origins to the present. In this unique history, Dr. Htin Aung presents an interpretation that is nationalistic, fresh, and interesting. $12.00

THE WASHINGTON COMMUNITY, 1800-1828 JAMES STERLING YOUNG

Against a background that includes an intriguing description of the new capital, the author compares the government in Washington from 1800-1828 with that called for by the Constitution. ". . . A comprehensive description of Congress and the Executive during the Jeffersonian era, an ingenious theory of why they were as they were, and a major critique and revision of current conceptions of the growth of American political institutions . . . indispensable as a guide and a challenge to serious students of American national politics."—American Political Science Review. The Founding of a Nation:

A HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION, 1763-1776

By MERRILL JENSEN, University of Wisconsin. An absorbing account of one of the most intricate periods in the nation's history, this work provides a fresh scholarly interpretation of the American Revolution, bringing into clear perspective the years between 1763 and 1776. The volume is a political history, and while political, economic, and social aspects are significant in the narrative, emphasis is on the deeds of men rather than on their rhetoric or their motives for action.

American Negro Slavery: A MODERN READER

Edited by ALLEN WEINSTEIN, Smith College and FRANK OTTO GATELL, University of California at Los Angeles. In these readings noted historians including Kenneth Stampp, Richard Wade, David Davis, and Stanley Elkins, analyze the origins of Negro slavery and its place in American history, the effects of the slave system on both slave and master, and the system itself. The selections represent substantial chronological coverage and cultural sweep, and convey a unique emphasis on social issues.

The South Since Appomattox:

A CENTURY OF REGIONAL CHANGE

By THOMAS D. CLARK and ALBERT D. KIRWAN, both of the University of Kentucky. Two prominent southern historians trace the readjustment of the American South since the end of the Civil War, and study in depth the transforming forces that have brought economic, political, and social change. Their objective appraisal touches on every aspect of life in the region: its governments and leaders; industry and agriculture; education, religion, and culture; and social life, both rural and urban.

A World History

By WILLIAM H. McNEILL, University of Chicago

Widely praised for its sound scholarship, balanced coverage and readable style, this new volume surveys world history, emphasizing the intellectual, cultural, and social forces that have shaped civilizations throughout human history. Professor McNeill draws from archaeology, technical history, and art history, sources which provide him with important clues to ancient relationships often far more significant than literary record alone would indicate. The volume is handsomely illustrated, with forty-eight pages of photographs, twenty-two pages of world maps in color, and thirty-six line maps. Bibliographical essays, chronological tables, and an index provide additional study aids.

"This new work reveals anew the breadth of vision and gift for synthesis that distinguished Professor McNeill's The Rise of the West. He has a special talent for relating in meaningful ways the patterns of the great civilizations, their borrowings, their conflicts, and their contributions to global history."—Geoffrey Bruun, Cornell University

"Professor William H. McNeill's A World History is a fine product of this notable historian's special gift. He has a vision of the history of mankind as the unity that it has always been potentially, and that it has become in fact in our time. . . . he makes the interactions between different civilizations, in all periods of history, the main theme of his book. In tracing this intricate pattern of historical events, he shows great skill in planning and arrangement. In fact, he makes a complicated story lucid."—Arnold Toynbee

Announcing a new paperback series

Problems in European History:
A DOCUMENTARY COLLECTION

General Editors: JOHN F. NAYLOR, State University of New York at Buffalo, and RICHARD BIENVENU, University of Colorado

The volumes in this new paperback series are designed to present original source materials on critical documents and specific problems in European history. Purposely restricted in scope, each work is designed so that both student and instructor may exercise independence in analysis and interpretation.

The Problems in European History series is comprised of seven paperback editions. The first four volumes are scheduled for Spring 1968 publication; the remaining volumes will be published at a later date. About 350 pages in length, each edition includes an introduction and annotations, and is priced at about $2.50.

The Oxford History of the American People

By SAMUEL ELIOT MORISON. "It is a rich legacy, providing not only the salient facts but a thousand little known but highly relevant facts about our history. . . . It is rich in the author's appraisals of American character. . . . It is rich in its vivid characterizations of American life and its leaders. . . . Few works of a general nature are as rich in social and cultural history." —John Hope Franklin, University of Chicago.

A History of Russia

By NICHOLAS V. RIASANOVSKY, University of California, Berkeley. This lucid, scholarly work examines the story of Russia's past in a manner that shows the author's thorough acquaintance with both primary sources and the major interpretive work on the subject, including that of Soviet historians. Following a general introduction, the book is divided into five parts: Kievan Russia; Appanage Russia; Muscovite Russia; Imperial Russia; and Soviet Russia. The organization is basically chronological, with chapters divided topically into discussions of political history, economics, society and institutions, and religion and culture.

A History of the Ancient World

By CHESTER G. STARR, University of Illinois. This work puts into clear focus the whole sweep of ancient times from the Paleolithic Age to the Fifth Century A.D. The study centers on the great stream of development from the Near East through Greece and Rome, and briefly treats the Chinese and Indian links to Western development. The framework of the book is firmly chronological, but the author's purpose always is to interpret the necessary factual material to present a living story of ancient civilizations. Bibliographical essays cover both the useful modern works and archaeological sources.

The Elizabethan Court of Chancery

By W. J. JONES, University of Alberta. This is a study of the Chancery as a court of law at a time when both its officials and procedures were subject to a process of definition. The book deals first with the men who staffed the court and their problems, particularly the career of Thomas Egerton. The second section is concerned with the growth of procedural rules. Finally, an attempt is made to describe the status of Chancery, and its position with respect to the other courts at the end of the Elizabethan period. $14.40

John Rogers: Tudor Military Engineer

By LON R. SHELBY, Southern Illinois University. John Rogers, one of the foremost English military engineers of his time, served Henry VIII, Edward VI, and Mary as surveyor of works at Hull, Boulogne, and Calais. His career came at a turning point in the history of English military engineering, during the 1540's. Although the actual fortifications have disappeared, numerous contemporary drawings are extant, and from these one can estimate his significance not only as a military engineer but also as an architectural and topographical draftsman. 3 text figures, 29 plates. $13.45

Crown and Clergy in Colonial Mexico 1759-1821

THE CRISIS OF ECCLESIASTICAL PRIVILEGE

By N. M. FARRISS. The author draws on a wide range of hitherto unused archives material to present the first available account of the position of the Spanish imperial government in Mexico during the last half century before independence. A principal aim of the book is to explore the way in which the changing constitutional position of the church affected the attitude of clerics towards the movement for independence, a crisis in which the participation of clergy was a key factor. (University of London Historical Studies, No. 21.) $9.20

Great Britain and Germany's Lost Colonies 1914-1919

By WM. ROGER LOUIS, Yale University. This is the first thorough study of British colonial aims during the First World War. Using previously unavailable sources in England, South Africa, Australia, and New Zealand, the author discusses why the British government are public convinced themselves that the colonies shouldn't be returned to Germany, and why the German colonies were not annexed, but were administered as mandates under the League of Nations. Edward Wilmot Blyden 1832-1912

PAN-NEGRO PATRIOT

By HOLLIS R. LYNCH, Roosevelt University, Chicago. New light is thrown on West African and American Negro history of the late nineteenth century through this study of Edward Blyden. The author reveals the way in which Blyden became the intellectual focus of the English-speaking West Africa of his time, and explains that Pan-Africanism and Negritude and the African personality are all concepts which developed under the stimulus of his thinking. Blyden traveled widely, and the discrimination against Negroes which he saw in the United States offended his racial pride and led him to a lifelong advocacy of repatriation to Africa. 3 plates

Defeat in the East

By MICHAEL ELLIOTT-BATEMAN, University of Manchester. This vigorous book urges radical revision of the methods of warfare used by Western forces in South East Asia, in the hope of diverting the trend towards their defeat in the East. The book cites historic victories won by forces smaller and weaker in arms and illuminates the psychology behind them by reviewing the theories of Mao Tse-Tung and General Vo Nguyen Giap and showing how they have been vindicated.

Introduction to the Sources of Ming History

By WOLFGANG FRANKE, University of Malaya. This book is an introduction to the numerous and complex available sources of Ming History. The Ming Dynasty (1368-1644), long neglected by historians and critics due to the unfavorable political climate of the following dynasty, is now seen by scholars as the formative period of the Chinese political and social system prior to its clash with the Western world in the nineteenth century. In this book some 800 source titles are listed.

THE DEMOCRATIC EXPERIENCE

A Short American History

Second Edition

LOUIS B. WRIGHT, The Folger Shakespeare Library; CLARENCE L. VER STEEG, Northwestern University; RUSSEL B. NYE, Michigan State University; HOLMAN HAMILTON, University of Kentucky; DAVID M. POTTER, Stanford University; VINCENT P. DE SANTIS, University of Notre Dame; WILLIAM H. HARBAUGH, University of Virginia; ARTHUR S. LINK, Princeton University; THOMAS C. COCHRAN, University of Pennsylvania; CARL N. DEGLER, Vassar College

Ten historians, each writing on the particular aspect or period of American history in which he is a specialist, provide concise, scholarly, and balanced coverage of politics, economics, and culture. The text is constructed for maximum flexibility to permit the instructor to make his own decisions about the presentation of material. The new edition is characterized by revised and updated material, redesigned front matter and Part Introductions, and new illustrations and legends. Major changes are found in Part 8, which contains new or expanded material on recent decisions of the Supreme Court, repercussions of Sputnik, the Johnson administration, the persistence of poverty despite improved economic conditions, changes in corporate economy, and on education and the arts. Appendices include the complete text of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States as well as several tables, maps, and charts. An annotated bibliography at the end of each Part serves as a guide for broadened understanding of the period. Ready February 1968, approx. 544 pages, softbound: prob. $5.45, hardbound: prob. $6.75

Study Guide to THE DEMOCRATIC EXPERIENCE

Second Edition

MARK T. CARLETON, Louisiana State University

Each of the 24 chapters contains an outline of the corresponding text chapter, as well as multiple-choice, true-false, matching, completion, cause-and-effect, and chronological-sequence items. Essay questions and map and chart exercises further assist the student in both his first study of the text and his review of it. The Answer Key gives page references for the location of answers to selected objective and essay questions. Ready Spring 1968, approx. 128 pages, softbound, prob. $1.50

MAJOR ISSUES IN CALIFORNIA HISTORY

New History Texts From Prentice-Hall

A History of Civilization:

Third Edition, 1967

Volume I: Prehistory to 1715

Volume II: To the Present

by Crane Brinton, McLean Professor of Ancient and Modern History, Harvard University; John B. Christopher, University of Rochester; and Robert Lee Wolff, Archibald Cary Coolidge Professor of History, Harvard University. A classic analysis of the growth of Western Civilization, introducing non-European cultures as they impinged on European development. By avoiding artificial classifications, the authors coordinate cultural and intellectual history with social, economic and political developments. New in this Third Edition: Volume I: Considerable up-dating, revising and expanding of the first three chapters (Pre-history, Greeks and Romans) reflecting the latest discoveries in anthropology, archaeology and linguistics. The treatment of Eastern Europe and Russia is now more thoroughly European, not simply Western European. Volume II: Completely up-dated, the main revisions involve the broad coverage given to the decline of imperialism and colonialism, and the emergence of the new nations of Asia and Africa. Maps have been re-drawn and printed in color. 85% of the illustrations are new. Vol. 1, March 1967, 672 pp., $9.95; Vol. II, April 1967, 720 pp., $9.95

Modern Civilization:

A History of the

Last Five Centuries

Second Edition, 1967

Also by Brinton, Christopher and Wolff. The crucial position of the United States today is sharply defined in this text, a newly revised one-volume history covering Europe and its expansion since 1500. Content is based on and identical to appropriate chapters from both volumes of the new Third Edition of A HISTORY OF CIVILIZATION, offering a flexible arrangement for courses in modern history. The new edition of MODERN CIVILIZATION also features a specially written chapter providing background specifically for this volume and orientation for its primary themes. April 1967, 896 pp., $9.95

For approval copies, write: Box 903

Landmarks in Western Culture:

Commentaries and Controversies Volume I & Volume II

by Donald N. Baker, Michigan State University; and George W. Fasel, Reed College. Designed to accompany the reading of primary sources, this volume offers from three to five commentaries and secondary readings on major historical documents drawn from the fields of religion, philosophy, literature, political theory, economics, history, and science. Both September 1967 publications, Vol. I. 512 pp., Vol. II. 480 pp., paperbound $4.95 each.

Latin America:

The Development of

Its Civilization

Second Edition, 1967

by Helen Miller Baily, East Los Angeles College, and Abraham P. Nasatir, San Diego State College. More than just a Latin American political history text, this volume explains the effects of geography, social problems, economic development and cultural attainment on Latin America's development. This new edition contains up-to-date materials on the Alliance for Progress, the Latin American Common Market, urbanization problems in the growing cities, Afro-Americans in colonial Latin America and other current topics. May 1967, 832 pp., $9.95

The United States:

The History of a Republic

Second Edition, 1967

by Richard Hofstadter, Columbia University, William Miller; and Daniel Aaron, Smith College. A full, comprehensive history of the United States molded by the understanding and knowledge of three outstanding authors, this volume brings into brilliant focus the full sweep of our experience—from the background for Columbus' voyage to the latest events in space, foreign affairs and the "Great Society." This revised Second Edition places new emphasis on United States history in context of Western civilization and world-wide movements. March 1967, 928 pp., $9.95

CIVIL WAR HISTORY: A Journal of the Middle Period has completed twelve years as a principal organ of nineteenth century American history. Originally devoted to an intensive, scholarly treatment of the war years, 1861-1865, it now publishes articles on slavery and abolition, antebellum and reconstruction politics, diplomacy, and social and cultural developments of the middle period. In addition, a comprehensive book review section and an annual bibliography of articles assist the scholar in keeping abreast of current literature.

Contributors to the journal have included such eminent historians as Allan Nevins, Robert W. Johannsen, T. Harry Williams, Harold Hyman and Bruce Catton. Some fifty articles from CIVIL WAR HISTORY are listed in the bibliography of the standard survey of the era, THE CIVIL WAR AND RECONSTRUCTION, by James G. Randall and David Donald.

Now entering its thirteenth year, the journal continues to grow in quality and circulation. The heavy demand has necessitated a reprinting of the first six volumes by the Johnson Reprint Corporation, 111 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Subsequent volumes may be purchased through the editorial offices at The University of Iowa. Annual subscription rate in the United States is $5.00; to other countries $5.75. Questions concerning subscriptions and manuscripts should be directed to the editor.

A HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

OSCAR THEODORE BARCK, JR.

Syracuse University

and

HUGH TALMAGE LEFLER

University of North Carolina

The New Second Edition of this two-volume work provides a balanced treatment of the political, economic, social, cultural, and diplomatic aspects of American history, reflecting the many new interpretations that have appeared in recent years. Volume I covers the years of early development up to Reconstruction; Volume II stresses the increasingly dominant role of the United States in international relations, the growing complexity of her domestic affairs, her recent breakthrough in space technology, and her expanding involvement in Southeast Asia.

Throughout, chronological lines are clearly drawn within the narrative so the student will grasp fully the continuity and sequence of events. Numerous maps and illustrations—plus a number of important documents—are included. For convenient reference, a list of selected readings is located at the end of each chapter, arranged by topic. A general bibliography appears at the end of each volume.

Volume I: To 1877. About 500 pages. Illustrated. Volume II: Since 1865. About 640 pages. Illustrated. Each Volume $8.50

Caterina Sforza

A Renaissance Virago

Ernst Breisach

Caterina Sforza (1462/3 to 1509), natural daughter of the Duke of Milan, lived in the midst of the intricate and often treacherous politics of the Italian Renaissance. A true virago and despot, she was reckless, ruthless, treacherous, and contemptuous of the common people. Though her name runs through all accounts of the period, this is the first English-language biography of Caterina—a flamboyant and indomitable woman who was twice married, mother of nine, warrior and power politician.

The Making of a Workers' Revolution

Russian Social Democracy, 1891-1903

Allan K. Wildman

Hoover Institution Publications

This is the first major social study of the formative years in the development of Russian Social Democracy, focusing on the interaction during the 1890's between intellectuals and workers. The author assesses the historical importance of the movement in preparing the way for the Bolshevik-Menshevik split, and in the mobilizing of social forces which shaped the 1905 Revolution. He concentrates on memoirs, underground publications, and police sources, to give an accurate cross-section of the social make-up of the movement, participants' motivations, and techniques of action. "History of Menshevism" series, Leopold H. Haimson, General Editor.

Free but Not Equal

The Midwest and the Negro during the Civil War

V. Jacque Voegeli

This is the first comprehensive analysis of midwestern attitudes toward the Negro during the Civil War. It shows how racialism generated opposition to emancipation and the war, helped to delay the enlistment of Negro soldiers, provided the Democratic party with continuing strength, and strongly influenced the policies of Lincoln and Congress. Mr. Voegeli argues that the same ambivalence that plagues the civil rights movement today persisted throughout early Reconstruction. Only necessity and moral outrage over slavery compelled midwesterners to accept emancipation and grant Negroes limited equality.

The German Revolutions

Friedrich Engels

With an introduction by Leonard Krieger

The Peasant War in Germany, a history of the peasants' revolt of 1525-26, and Germany: Revolution and Counter-Revolution, a history of the revolution of 1848, are the definitive history of social revolution in Germany. Here, Engels is established as a historian with his own method exemplified by these landmarks in historiography. "Classic European Historians" series.

Charles Middleton

The Life and Times of a Restoration Politician

George Hilton Jones

This book describes the career of Charles, the second Earl of Middleton, who was James II's Secretary of State for Northern Europe and his whip in the Commons. An obedient civil servant, his career accurately reflects the major events of the Restoration. He was intimately involved with British foreign policy of the 1680's, which receives its first full treatment here.

THE KINGDOM OF QUITO IN THE SEVENTEENTH CENTURY

Bureaucratic Politics in the Spanish Empire

By John Leddy Phelan

The intricate web of authority, responsibility, and decision-making which existed in the bureaucracy of the Spanish empire is detailed in this study of the kingdom of Quito and its audiencia—the supreme organ of government in the overseas kingdoms. Focusing on the period when Dr. Antonio de Morga was president of the tribunal, from 1615 to 1636, Mr. Phelan recounts problems of the audiencia, studies local judicial and administrative problems, and examines the effect of the visita general system of evaluating overseas magistrates.

THE UPPER HOUSE IN REVOLUTIONARY AMERICA, 1763-1788

By Jackson Turner Main

In this study of the power structure of Revolutionary America, Mr. Main traces what happened to the "councils" of colonial America when they were transformed into the "senates" of the United States of America. Drawing upon local histories, tax lists, legislative records, etc., he determines the composition of the various upper houses, their functions, and general role. His conclusion that these upper houses had changed character and role and were becoming effective instruments of a democratic government is well substantiated.

GENEVA AND THE CONSOLIDATION OF THE FRENCH PROTESTANT MOVEMENT, 1564-1572

A Contribution to the History of Congregationalism, Presbyterianism, and Calvinist Resistance Theory

By Robert M. Kingdon

From his study of manuscripts and rare books, some of which were only recently made available, Mr. Kingdon offers an analysis and evaluation of fresh information about the two major problems which dominated Protestant activity in France from the time of John Calvin's death to the eruption of the St. Bartholomew's Day massacre; how the Reformed Church should be organized and how it should deal with the French state.

INTRODUCING AMERICANA LIBRARY

 Robert F. Burke, General Editor. The Americana Library is designed to make available in a standard format books of recognized importance that have been out of print. The volumes in this new series have been selected because they illuminate the American past in a singular manner and are of permanent value to historians and their students. Each volume contains the original unabridged text, to which has been added a new Introduction written either by the original author or by a scholar who is particularly well qualified to evaluate the enduring significance of the book. With volumes scheduled for publication in the fall and spring of each year, Americana Library commences with:

The City: The Hope of Democracy

Frederic C. Howe, with a new Introduction by Otis A. Pease. When Howe published this vigorous work in 1905, he provided other municipal reformers with a valuable statement about the causes of urban misery and gave to the literature of the period one of its true and lasting classics. 344 pages. AL-1 $6.95

Bourbon Democracy of the Middle West, 1865-1896

Horace Samuel Merrill, with a new Introduction by the author. Written with sympathy for the depressed farmer and laborer, this angry and controversial book presents in striking perspective a record of the tactics, successes, and failures of the dominant Democratic leadership in the Middle West and East. 328 pages, illus. AL-2 $6.95

The Deflation of American Ideals

AN ETHICAL GUIDE FOR NEW DEALERS

Edgar Kemler, with a new Introduction by Otis L. Graham, Jr. Long regarded as a kind of "underground classic" for students of the New Deal, this passionate condemnation of the privileged elite furnishes an indispensable original source for the historian of the New Deal and of the larger liberal tradition. 200 pages. AL-3 $5.00

Borah of Idaho

Claudius O. Johnson, with a new Introduction by the author. "This book is not only a study of a life worth telling; it is the story of a moving America as pictured through the career of a man whose importance as a political figure has been exceeded only by presidents."—Current History. 544 pages, illus. AL-4 $7.95

The Fight for Conservation

Gifford Pinchot, with a new Introduction by Gerald D. Nash. A collection of lively and informative essays that conveys the intense fervor of the Progressive movement while giving the best statement of the basic position of Pinchot—the greatest of all conservation leaders during this era. 168 pages.
