GENERAL INFORMATION

HEADQUARTERS: The headquarters hotel is the Marriott Motor Hotel, located at Courtland and Cain Streets, where buses travel to and from the airport frequently. The AHA office and the office of the Local Arrangements Committee are located in the Whitehall Suite and the Wren's Nest off the convention lobby on the Cain Street side of the hotel. The registration desk is in the Hall of Nations on the convention floor (basement) of the hotel. The locator file and information bulletin board are in the lobby on the same floor. The registration desk and locator file in the Hyatt Regency Hotel are on the terrace level adjacent to the Phoenix Ballroom. The professional register is located in the Phoenix Ballroom at the Hyatt Regency. In addition to the Marriott and the Hyatt Regency, blocks of rooms have been reserved at several neighboring hotels. Members who have not reserved hotel accommodation should send their reservation forms (enclosed in the September Newsletter) to the AHA Housing Bureau, Suite 1414, 229 Peachtree Street N.E., Atlanta, Georgia 30303.

GROUP FLIGHTS: Arrangements have been made to provide a charter flight from San Francisco/Los Angeles and group flights from Baltimore, Denver, Newark, New York, and St. Louis. For further details write to Glen Roc Travel (AHA Flight Program), 194 Scotch Road, Trenton, New Jersey 08628.

AHA REGISTRATION: For those members who have not preregistered for the meeting, the registration desks at the Marriott and the Hyatt Regency will be open on Saturday, December 27, from 12:00 noon to 9:00 p.m.; Sunday, December 28, from 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.; Monday, December 29, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.; and Tuesday, December 30, from 8:30 a.m. to 12:00 noon. Registration fee is $10.00 for AHA members and $15.00 for nonmembers; students $5.00.

BUSINESS MEETING: By action of the Council at its meeting on March 30, 1974, resolutions for the business meeting will be handled as follows: (1) resolutions signed by twenty-five members of the association will be accepted until December 15; (2) resolutions received by November 1 will take precedence and will be published in the December Newsletter; (3) resolutions must be no more than three hundred words in length.

Resolutions should be sent to the executive director at the AHA office, with copy to the parliamentarian, Alfred H. Kelly, Department of History, Wayne State University, Detroit, Michigan 48202.

VOTING CARDS: Voting cards will be included in the preregistration packet (preregistration form enclosed), and they will also be given out to members who register at the meeting.

LOCATOR FILE: Locator files are maintained in the registration areas at the Marriott and Hyatt Regency Hotels.

INFORMATION DESKS AND BULLETIN BOARDS: Information regarding the annual meeting, the American Historical Association, and Atlanta environs, is available at the registration desks at the Marriott and Hyatt Regency Hotels. Bulletin boards for notices of special meetings and for personal purposes are near the information desks.

PROFESSIONAL REGISTER: The professional register is located in the Phoenix Ballroom of the Hyatt Regency.

As representatives of one source of nonacademic employment for young historians, spokesmen from several major Atlanta corporations have been invited to participate in the professional register. They will hold group discussions on job opportunities in business, on the processes of application and interviewing, and the like.

The professional register will be in operation during the following hours:

Saturday, December 27	2:00 p.m.–6:00 p.m.
Sunday, December 28	9:00 a.m.–6:00 p.m.
Monday, December 29	9:00 a.m.–3:00 p.m.
Tuesday, December 30	9:00 a.m.–12:00 noon

AHA DIVISIONAL COMMITTEES: During the annual meeting, representatives of the three divisional committees—research, teaching, and the profession—will be available in the English Room at the Hyatt Regency at designated times to meet with any members of the association who wish to discuss matters of mutual concern. Please consult the bulletin boards in the registration areas and the notice board beside the door to the room for specific dates and hours the representatives will be present.

CHILD CARE ARRANGEMENTS: Persons requiring child care services during the meeting should write to the Local Arrangements Chairman, Melvin W. Ecke, at the Department of History, Georgia State University, University Plaza, Atlanta, Georgia 30303, for information and rates.

WOMEN HISTORIANS: A room where women historians can gather and all historians may obtain information on women's history groups will be maintained throughout the annual meeting in the Stone Mountain Suite at the Marriott Hotel. It will be open on Saturday, December 27, from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m.; Sunday, December 28, and Monday, December 29, from 9:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m.; and Tuesday, December 30, from 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

EXHIBITORS: The exhibits are located in the Hall of Nations at the Marriott Hotel and will be open during the following hours: December 27, 3:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.; December 28 and 29, 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.; and December 30, 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon. For list of exhibitors please see page 92 in the program.

TOURS: In addition to the tour Atlanta: Past to Present (see pp. 59, 77), the following tours are available: Stone Mountain Park, Sunday, December 28, 2:30–5:30 p.m.; tour of private homes and the Atlanta Memorial Arts Center, Monday, December 29, 9:30 a.m.–12:30 p.m.; trip to Madison, Georgia, Monday, December 29, 10:00 a.m.–5:00 p.m.; Bicentennial tour, Monday, December 29, 10:00 a.m.–6:00 p.m.; and tours for children: Lion Country Safari, Sunday, December 28, 9:30 a.m.–2:30 p.m.; Stone Mountain Park Monday, December 29, 9:30 a.m.–2:30 p.m. For further information please write to Melvin W. Ecke, Department of History, Georgia State University, University Plaza, Atlanta, Georgia 30303.

MEAL MEETINGS: All luncheons are scheduled for 12:15 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the meal ticket desk adjacent to the registration desks at the Marriott and Hyatt Regency Hotels. All payments must be in U.S. currency, by cash or traveler's check.

After clearance of room allocation with the Local Arrangements Chairman, all other arrangements for the meal meetings must be conducted directly between the organization and the hotel. Following are the addresses of the two main hotels:

REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, 1974-75

When I became the association's executive director on July 1, 1974, my primary charge from the Council was to solve the problem of persistent budget deficits that, if allowed to continue, would soon bankrupt the association. The Council also expected me to act as quickly as possible to implement the constitution recently adopted by the membership, reorganize and make more efficient Council and association committees, develop a program of professional services for our members and departments, improve the association's ability to respond to the unemployment crisis among historians, maintain and improve the quality of our publications, and strengthen the association in its role as a national voice for the profession.

Following a review of financial conditions in the association, I confirmed that our problem of budget deficits was quite serious and that it would not be solved easily or quickly. The gap between our revenue and our expenditures had grown too large to be quickly closed by small economies here and there; inflation alone would require substantial reductions of costs merely to maintain the current deficit level. If we were to respond to the challenges of the Review Board and the new constitution to become more active in the areas of teaching and the profession as well as in research, then our financial problem would become increasingly serious.

As I began to confront our financial problems my foremost concerns became whether our members would continue to support the association during these difficult times and whether, with our limited financial resources, I would have sufficient time to solve our budgetary problems before they overwhelmed us. As I write this, my first annual report to the membership, I do not know the answers to these questions. By the time of the annual business meeting I will be able to speak with greater certainty, and, I hope, with greater optimism. My first annual report, then, is a statement of work in progress; it will be followed in December by a more definitive accounting. In the seven sections that follow, I hope to recapitulate how the Council and I have addressed ourselves during the year to the association's manifold problems.

I. Financial Problems

The Council held four meetings during the period covered by this report: one on September 27-29, 1974, in Washington, D.C., a second and third on December 27 and December 30, in Chicago, and a fourth on April 27-28, 1975, in Washington. As the published minutes of these meetings reveal, the Council has been especially active in 1974-75, and the serious financial condition of the association has been a subject of particular concern.

Last year, in a report notable for its candor, Treasurer Roderic H. Davison reminded members of our past and present financial sins and warned us about the disaster that would certainly follow unless prompt and vigorous actions were taken:

Last year was the fourth in the last five to show a deficit, and the surplus in the other year (1972-73) was due to a nonrecurring gain in securities transfers. Such a situation cannot long continue if the association is to survive. Costs of goods and services continue to rise; we have recently been notified of significant advances in paper, printing, and postage costs. Measures to control costs have already been initiated. Further the association will need to consider what services to its membership must have priority. A revision of the dues structure, to produce greater revenue and at the same time to be more equitable, seems inescapable.

The Council had anticipated Treasurer Davison's warning when in March 1974 it adopted a resolution instructing me to present my recommendations to the Council for a new dues structure and for reducing the proposed 1974-75 deficit, particularly by reducing the costs of our publications. I reported to the Council in September 1974 that while I could make significant savings in this area, the magnitude of our budget deficit and the requirements of our responsibilities under the new constitution meant that our financial problems could not be solved completely by a reduction of such costs, now or in the long run. Galloping inflation makes that conclusion all the more compelling.

My review further convinced me that we needed a comprehensive, long-range plan to deal not only with our budget deficit and to reallocate our resources to meet the requirements of the new constitution, but also to focus our attention on ways of increasing our income. I informed the Council that it would require at least two years to put the association's financial house in order, and that during this period I would have to call on the unrestricted reserves the association had accumulated and invested during the boom period of the 1960s, when revenue from increased membership exceeded expenditures. The Council agreed that when it appointed the new executive director and then proceeded to implement the new constitution under the membership's mandate, it well understood that further inroads into the capital of the unrestricted invested reserves would be required. Funds in years of income would continue to be needed, not only to meet continuing [but, the Council believed, temporary] deficits, but also to enable the new executive director to implement the new constitution. It would be some time before the new administration, under the new constitution, could expect either significantly to cut the budget or to increase income.

In the course of 1974 the Council and I took several important actions to improve the association's financial condition. In the Washington office I gave priority to a review of all association activities and to a phased reduction of selected expenditures. I imposed a moratorium on filling staff vacancies. Expenditures for executive travel, supplies and equipment, and other office operations were kept to a minimum consistent with efficient operations. No new projects were initiated without careful consideration of cost implications, and staff officers were requested to monitor carefully all operating expenses and report on ways of reducing costs. Expenditures for Council and committee meetings were closely controlled. During the past year economies have been made in the editing and manufacturing of the American Historical Review, in the level of support for the pamphlet series and the Employment Information Bulletin, in the management of the business and advertising offices, in legal services, and in the executive director's office. Economical and efficient operation of the Washington office will continue to be our objective. At this writing I can assure the members of the association that all aspects of the AHA's expenses have received and continue to receive careful scrutiny. Our success in reducing our operating costs may be judged by a review of the financial report. In virtually all categories reductions in expenditures have been made, not only when compared to current budget estimates but also when compared to previous costs.

At its meeting on December 27, 1974, the Council took an important first step toward substantial permanent reduction of costs when it authorized me to advise it whether savings would result from moving the editorial offices of the Review to a university campus or research library. At the April 1975 Council meeting, after I reported that such reductions were possible, the Council adopted a number of important resolutions dealing with the location of the editorial operations of the Review. It authorized me to engage in discussions with officials at any institution that may express an interest in housing the Review and, pending final approval by the Council, to relocate the editorial offices at a university campus or other academic research institution of national importance at the earliest practicable time. Any agreement must ensure that the AHA retain control of the appointment of the editor and of the Review's editorial and business policy. As soon as practicable, I will prepare an estimate of costs of relocation for Finance Committee consideration, accompanied by my recommendations about the source of funds should they be needed. In planning for the relocation, I will take into consideration the welfare of the editorial personnel affected by this decision and make every reasonable effort to assist them in finding other employment.

Following the resignation of the editor, R. K. Webb, in June 1975, the Council authorized the Executive Committee to appoint an interim editor and also authorized the president to establish a search committee for his successor. A study of the AHR's editorial policy is being conducted by the Committee on Research. At this time (July 1975) relocation of the AHR is being pursued. Any developments will be reported in the Newsletter and at the annual meeting.

While these steps were taken to reduce operating costs, others were taken to increase revenue. The most important of the latter include increases in membership dues, AHR subscription fees, and annual meeting registration fees; the initiation of an institutional services program; the development of a membership retention program; and the removal of the "Recently Published Articles" section from the Review for distribution on a subscription basis. Planning is under way for a membership drive, and thought is being given to a national fund drive.

Perhaps the most controversial revenue measure taken was the increase of membership dues. The Council's action had its origin in the reports of the Review Board, which concluded that AHA dues "have been all too modest and nominal for an association chartered by Congress to serve the needs not only of the historical profession but of history and its study in the United States." In its final report the Review Board recommended that the association "raise membership dues to a level in line with those of related scholarly and professional organizations, and should link them progressively to members' salaries."

In response to the Council's request for a new dues structure, I submitted a recommendation for an increase in dues which, with modifications, was adopted in September 1974. When it increased the dues the Council recognized that times were especially difficult for younger members and their families who, because of inflation, were seeing their real purchasing power actually decrease. The Council was also concerned about our unemployed members, our graduate students, and our retired members living on small fixed incomes. No member of the Council was pleased with the necessity of increasing dues, but there was unanimity that the association's financial condition required it. To a majority of the Council the new dues structure based on income seemed to provide the least complicated, the fairest, and most equitable basis for membership in the association.

On the basis of mail received in the Washington office, some members have expressed concern about the increase in dues, the graduated structure, and the invasion of privacy that they fear the income feature involves. After less than six months' experience it is difficult to assess the effects of the new dues structure on membership and income. At some future date we may well decide that further refinements and adjustments are in order. The total number of active members has declined during the past year—from 14,960 in January 1974 to a low of 14,124 at the end of the year. The decline in membership occurred, however, during the summer and fall months, one of the worst periods of the national recession, and well before the new dues structure went into effect. Since January 1975 membership has increased to 14,435. Therefore it seems unlikely that the net decline of 525 members can be attributed solely to the new dues structure. Mail received in the national office seems to bear out this interpretation. By the December 1975 Council meeting we will have had a full year's experience with the new structure and be better equipped to evaluate its effects.

II. Implementation of the Revised Constitution

When the membership approved the constitution in the spring of 1974 the Council's intention was to implement it as soon as the new executive director arrived on July 1. Working closely with the president, Lewis Hanke, the parliamentarian, Alfred Kelly, the Executive Committee, and the Council during the summer and fall, I created the Finance Committee, drafted a set of bylaws and constitutional amendments, and organized election of officers as required by Article VIII, Section 2 of the new constitution. With the appointment of James Leatherwood as controller on July 1, 1975, transition to the new constitution is complete. In my next report to the membership our experience under the new constitution will be reviewed and recommendations will be made for constitutional amendments and bylaws should they be necessary.

III. AHA Committees

The transition to the new constitution with elected divisional committees on research, teaching, and the profession made 1975 a year of change for AHA committees. In 1974 the association had twenty standing and ad hoc committees; by January 1975 consolidation had reduced this number to sixteen. Much attention has been given to organizing the new committees and to improving their operation. A comprehensive set of guidelines governing Council and association committee operations was drafted and adopted by the Council at its meeting on December 27, 1974.

The vice-presidents for teaching, research and the profession—Warren Hollister, Leo Solt and Jean Joughin—have reported in the Newsletter on the work of the divisional committees and will make formal reports at the annual meeting, thereby eliminating any need for me to deal with their activities here. During the early months of 1975 much of the attention of the divisional committees has of necessity been focused on establishing operating procedures, reviewing committee roles and jurisdictions, and developing a working relationship with the executive office, other committees, and the Council. Each divisional committee held a meeting in the spring, and each anticipates a second meeting in the fall. Under the diligent prodding of the vice-presidents, each committee has undertaken preliminary work that will allow it to deal effectively with the substantive areas mandated by the new constitution.

Although the divisional committees are the agencies responsible for the generation of association policy in many important areas, the work of other committees deserves mention here. In 1974 the ad hoc Committee on the Rights of Historians, under the able leadership of Sheldon Hackney, submitted its final report. Approved by the Council on December 27, 1974, the report provides an instructive evaluation of the state of academic freedom for historians and offers guidance to the AHA in responding to infringements of the rights of historians. Its "Statement of Professional Standards" supplements AAUP guidelines and offers an important statement of policy to avoid such infringements.

Special efforts to improve relations with specialized historical societies began during Lewis Hanke's presidency. Under the chairmanship of President-elect Gordon Wright, the ad hoc Committee on Affiliated Societies developed guidelines for formalizing relations between the AHA and specialized groups with regard to criteria for affiliation, participation in the annual meeting program, and publication of an annual directory of affiliated societies. The Council appointed a new standing Committee on Affiliated Societies, with President-elect Richard B. Morris, chairman, to screen applications. By May 1975 forty-three organizations had affiliated with the AHA, and additional applications are pending.

During this bicentennial year, the Committee on the Commemoration of the American Revolution Bicentennial has continued its labors under the chairmanship of Richard Morris. The prize for the best work on the era of the American Revolution in a language other than English has attracted wide attention and thirty-two entries were submitted. The committee hopes that the winner of this award can be announced at the annual meeting. The committee has also continued its efforts to promote binational and international scholarly events that commemorate the bicentennial and has added a representative from the teaching division to ensure that the teaching of the revolution is not neglected. At its April 1975 meeting, the committee endorsed the concept of celebrating the bicentennial era, 1776-1989, and recommended creation of a new AHA committee to plan its commemoration. These proposals have received the approval of the Council, and we are endeavoring to convince the federal government of the need to support bicentennial activities beyond July 4, 1976.

During the past year, the AHA's Committee on Women Historians, under the active leadership of Jane deHart Mathews and Joan Kelly-Gadol, has concentrated on collecting data on the status of women, developing a "survival handbook" for young historians, and planning a pilot project to integrate the teaching of women's history into high school history courses. In September 1974 the Council recognized the importance of quantitative research methods by creating a standing Committee on Quantitative Research in History to replace the ad hoc Committee on Quantitative Data in History. This new committee is presently working under the guidance of Theodore Rabb.

The Council took an important step toward reformation of policies for association prizes on December 27, 1974, and April 26, 1975, when it approved in principle major proposals submitted by an ad hoc committee composed of Charles Delzell and Natalie Z. Davis. In addition to examining and revising the current prize structure, the Council voted to establish four new prizes recommended by Delzell and Davis: (1) a quinquennial prize for the best work on United States history published outside the United States by a foreign scholar in any language, in honor of Alexis de Tocqueville; (2) a triennial prize for the teaching aid that makes the most outstanding contribution to the teaching of history in any field, in honor of James Harvey Robinson; (3) a quinquennial prize for outstanding editorial achievement in the editing of historical sources, in honor of J. Franklin Jameson; and (4) a quinquennial prize for the most outstanding reference tool in the field of history; a name for this prize to be deferred pending further study. These prizes will be awarded when adequate sources of funding are available.

Mr. Delzell also headed the ad hoc Committee on International Historical Activities, which was appointed by President Hanke in December 1974. On the basis of extensive correspondence with a number of historians concerned with international exchange, the committee submitted a detailed report to the Council in April 1975. The report reflects on the proper role, composition, and activities for a new standing committee to replace the old Committee on International Historical Activities, which was discharged in 1974. On the basis of the ad hoc committee's careful report, the Council agreed to appoint a new standing Committee on International Historical Activities. Members of the committee have been named, and it has recently begun its activities.

IV. The Annual Meeting

Sessions: At the 1974 annual meeting in Chicago the Program Committee continued to modify the traditional emphasis on reports on scholarly research, although it was uncertain how far it should go "toward a symmetry with the new tripartite emphasis of the association" on teaching, the profession, and research. How far the committee went may be judged by the number of sessions devoted to teaching (5) and the profession (3). Robert Cross, chairman of the Program Committee, reported that these sessions "engendered the most mixed reception from those attending the meetings." He concluded that there remains a "broad range of opinion about what is appropriate for sessions on teaching and professional concerns," a problem which subsequent program committees will have to struggle with.

The Council responded to pressure to modify the membership of the program committee by approving a plan that provided for the appointment of historians whose special competence is the teaching of history at all levels of schooling. In response to requests for wider dissemination of materials presented at the annual meeting, the Council plans to make session papers available before the meeting and to have them published subsequently by University Microfilms as the proceedings of the meeting. This plan will be implemented for the 1976 annual meeting, and participation will be on a voluntary basis. If this effort is successful, such publications will become a regular feature of the association's activity.

The General and Business Meetings: The general meeting was held on the evening of December 28 to present awards to the winners of association prizes and to hear Lewis Hanke's presidential address, "American Historians and the World Today: Responsibilities and Opportunities." He began his address with a question: "Nations have long had relations with each other and have acknowledged some responsibilities to each other in the world, but have historians?" Hanke almost immediately provided the audience with his answer: "A simple one. International congresses of historians do not fully meet the needs of the times and cannot be expected to do so unless the organization that sponsors them is substantially changed and unless national organizations accept far greater international responsibilities." The complete address is published in the February 1975 American Historical Review, and, for the first time, the president's address will also be printed in the Annual Report.

The business meeting was held on the afternoon of December 29, Lewis Hanke presiding. Following introductions of the executive director and parliamentarian, filling of vacancies on the Board of Trustees, and resolutions of thanks to the program and local arrangements chairmen and committee members, President Hanke presented the reports of officers, the Nominating Committee, and the chairmen of the three Council committees: for research, John Higham; for teaching, William H. McNeill; and for the profession, Otis L. Graham, Jr.

Under the new constitution the chairmen of these three important committees will be the elected vice-presidents. Each will be asked to submit written reports of their activities to the members and to stand ready at the annual business meeting to discuss committee activities.

At the annual meeting President Hanke, with a burst of energy that belied his years and stimulated all of us to greater effort, scheduled an unusually large number of receptions, meetings and luncheons. We wished to open wider the doors of the association to members, to heighten their concern about our problems, and to seek their participation in solving them. A reception was held on the evening of December 27 for the Council, the Program and Local Arrangements Committees, and association committee chairmen. Officers of the Organization of American Historians, the American Studies Association, the New England Historical Association, the American Association for State and Local History, the Southern Historical Association, and the Pacific Coast Branch of the AHA attended an informal breakfast on December 28. Separate meetings were held with community-college faculty, department chairmen, and representatives of affiliated societies.

V. Services for Members and Departments

Institutional Services Program: A major new project during 1974-75 has been the development of an Institutional Services Program. Although the possibility of departmental memberships in the association had been discussed on a number of occasions in the past, action was never taken. After I investigated the activities of other learned societies and assessed what the AHA could realistically expect to offer, the Council authorized development of an Institutional Services Program in December 1974. The program, which officially begins operation in July 1975, offers departments and other institutions a variety of services and publications for a single annual fee. The ISP allows the AHA to develop much needed publications and shifts the financial support for such activities from the individual member to the department. During 1975-76, membership in the ISP will bring with it a full schedule of benefits, including the Employment Information Bulletin; List of Doctoral Dissertations in History; a guide to departments of history; directories of department chairmen, women historians, and the AHA's affiliated societies; and a guide to fellowship and research grant opportunities. The program is being administered without the addition of permanent staff members to the Washington office. At this writing, more than a hundred institutions have joined the ISP and 246 have listed with the guide to departments, a response that we find most encouraging.

Employment Information Bulletin: One of the AHA's most useful services for historians and for departments continues to be the Employment Information Bulletin. In order to absorb rising production costs and to avoid an increase in subscription rates for association members, we made a number of changes in the publication. Although the AHA continues to solicit job information regularly from departments and to publish all job descriptions, the "no vacancy" and "no information received" lists have been removed. Since the EIB has never been self-supporting and has relied upon AHA funds to maintain its operation, a higher subscription rate for nonmembers was established. Future plans for the EIB include expansion of the chairmen's list (through which we solicit jobs) to include more two-year colleges and an increased effort to encourage nonacademic employers to list appropriate positions in the EIB.

At the annual meeting in Chicago, the job register was once again in operation to provide a place to list job notices and hold interviews. Although approximately 1,000 individuals used the facility, only 35 history departments, government agencies, and other firms held interviews at the register—a ratio that clearly underlines the severity of the job crisis. At the Chicago meeting we saw the initiation of a series of job counseling talks at which nonacademic employers discussed alternatives to teaching for historians. These talks, arranged by Paul B. Johnson, the local arrangements chairman, proved highly successful and included participation by representatives from business, the media, and government.

Women's Roster: In 1971 the AHA established a women's roster to provide search committees with information on women historians. Since 1973 the roster has been computerized by the University of Maryland's Department of Information Systems Management. Upon learning that Maryland's support of the roster could not continue beyond the 1974–75 fiscal year, we investigated a number of alternatives. Transferring the computer program to a commercial firm proved financially prohibitive. We therefore decided to publish a biographical directory of women historians. The new directory will continue to serve the original purposes of the roster and will also be a useful reference tool for members of the profession.

List of Doctoral Dissertations in History: The procedures involved in maintaining the List of Doctoral Dissertations in History have been significantly changed during the past year. With the death of the former editor, John Appleby, we reappraised the whole operation, looking for ways to reduce costs.

Our present system of publishing a List every three years and issuing bi-monthly supplements is being replaced with a List published every six months. A comprehensive List of all those titles received between May 15, 1973 (the closing date for entries in the May 1970–May 1973 List), and June 30, 1975, is now under way. Thereafter, a List will be published every January and July, containing those titles received during the six-month interval.

Newsletter: The AHA Newsletter, now in its second year of publication in the new monthly, sixteen-page format, continues to provide the membership with a current account of association activities and news of interest to the profession. During the past year we have explored a variety of ways to reduce further the cost of the publication, and we are taking a serious look at what the Newsletter is and what we would like it to become in the future. The Newsletter has an important role in bringing together the AHA's diverse membership and in encouraging discussion of matters of interest to the profession. While the Newsletter must continue to inform members of the activities of the executive office, the Council, and committees, effort must be made to keep the Newsletter from becoming a stagnant, one-sided house organ. We are eager to use the Newsletter to initiate a real dialogue and to stir up people with ideas on the problems and issues of importance to the profession. In order to make the Newsletter successful in this effort, we must rely on contributions from our officers, committees, and members.

Pamphlet Series: Two new pamphlets were published in 1974–75. The second pamphlet in the Discussions on Teaching series, Teaching History with Film by John E. O'Connor and Martin A. Jackson, appeared in September. Contemporary American History: The United States since 1945 by Dewey W. Grantham was published in June. A limited number of new pamphlets are planned for the coming year. Pamphlet sales of 1974–75 declined slightly, as most of the pamphlets published under the auspices of the Service Center for Teachers of History went out of print.

Writings on American History: In November 1974 the first volume of Writings on American History, 1973–74: A Subject Bibliography was published. A grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities made the volume possible, and a supplemental grant from NEH allowed work to proceed on the 1974-75 volume, which will include completed dissertations that were reported to the AHA. The revival of the Writings offers the profession the most comprehensive and current bibliography of article-length literature available.

Kraus-Thomson, the publisher of the Writings, has provided the association with an advance to continue work on the 1962-73 period in order to fill the gap between the old Writings and the new series.

VI. Involvement in Public Policy

The AHA has a long and distinguished record of involvement in public affairs. The establishment of the National Archives, the National Historical Publications Commission, the American Council of Learned Societies, the Social Science Research Council, and the International Congress of Historical Sciences all owe much to the association's efforts.

During the past year the association dealt with a number of crucial issues arising out of the resignation of Richard M. Nixon as president. After Nixon signed an agreement with the General Services Administration that conceded his ownership of the papers, tapes, and other materials of his terms of office, and permitted him to control access to and destroy them, the association joined the Reporters' Committee for Freedom of the Press and the American Political Science Association in a suit to prevent the implementation of the agreement. Three AHA members—William E. Leuchtenburg, Arthur S. Link, and James MacGregor Burns—served as plaintiffs in the suit that enjoined the agreement.

In addition to litigation, the AHA supported legislative answers to the questions posed by the ambiguous system governing the papers of public officials. In September I testified before a House subcommittee in support of a bill introduced by Representative John Brademas (D-Ind.) proposing a National Study Commission on Federal Records and Papers of Elected Officials. This measure was subsequently incorporated into the Presidential Recordings and Materials Preservation Act, which was signed by President Ford last December. William Leuchtenburg is the association's representative on the study commission. The AHA helped develop guidelines for access to the Nixon papers and has offered suggestions on the staffing of the study commission. While I have been disappointed at the delay in the actual establishment of the National Study Commission, I am hopeful that its work will be well under way by the time of the annual meeting.

At the request of the AHA, the American Assembly devoted its forty-eighth meeting at Arden House, April 3-5, to a discussion of "The Records of Public Officials." The meeting was attended by archivists, historians, journalists, jurists, and lawyers. In its final report, which was distributed to all AHA members, the assembly recommended the need for a new tradition for the collection and preservation of the records of federal public officials. Specifically, it argued that the papers of such officials must be treated as public property. The assembly also recommended the separation of the National Archives from the General Services Administration and its establishment as an independent executive agency.

Other activities in the area of public policy during 1974-75 have included support for the legislation expanding the National Historical Publications Commission. The expanded commission, now termed the National Historical Publications and Records Commission, also received an increased appropriation authorization, which, at this writing, Congress has not yet implemented. We have kept a close watch on legislation having an impact on the access of scholars to public documents, specifically proposing changes in the Freedom of Information Act or legislation designed to protect the right to privacy. The AHA has also recommended appointment of historians to a variety of federal posts. While not always successful, these activities have demonstrated that the association can have an impact and that historians have friends outside the academic cloister who are willing to work with us to achieve common goals.

Since most public policy concerning history occurs at the state and local level, we were pleased to accept the invitation to support the OAH's Committee on the Status of History in the Schools. This committee, with representatives in every state, has provided OAH Executive Secretary Richard Kirkendall with information on changes in requirements governing curriculum, teacher certification, and related matters. The committee's first report was presented this past April at the OAH annual meeting, and it provides an instructive and sobering view of the state of the discipline in the nation's schools. We hope that this committee will serve as an "early warning network" that can alert us to problems on the state and local level before it is too late for action.

VII. The Unemployment Crisis

None of us who has the slightest concern for the future of our discipline can be indifferent to the difficulties of young Ph.D.'s struggling to find academic positions. Their plight has become progressively worse as the recession, which began in the late 1960s, has continued to worsen and is now characterized by higher and higher unemployment and ravenous inflation, the depth and duration of which no prudent person dares to predict. These conditions have combined to produce an employment crisis in history and related disciplines of unprecedented proportions. Not only have recent Ph.D.'s been affected, but also nontenured faculty and, in some institutions, tenured faculty as well. Some of our members have urged the association to become more active in their professional interests and have demanded that the association put pressure on campuses to protect the rights of members, to accredit Ph.D. programs, or to limit the number of Ph.D.'s granted by graduate departments. Others have encouraged the AHA to take a more active role in assisting its members in finding academic positions or alternative careers for historians. The extent to which the AHA can be effective in these areas has yet to be tested.

Unfortunately, our efforts during the past year produced meager results. In the January 1975 Newsletter President Gordon Wright proposed that we "approach a foundation for funds that would enable certain universities to set up special programs (teaching fellowships, for example) for new Ph.D.'s." His proposal has, so far, fallen on deaf ears. Typical of the response was that of one highly placed foundation executive who, when approached, replied regretfully: "When I raise the questions with my colleagues here, they tell me that one cannot look to the foundations for help in any form of direct assistance. . . . I'm sorry to sound so negative but funding temporary instructorships would be entirely out of the question here, and I suspect at other foundations too." The response from other private sources has indeed been negative, although it should be noted that the Mellon Foundation has awarded $300,000 to the Higher Education Research Institute for a major two-year study of career opportunities in the humanities. The AHA is cooperating closely with the institute in this study and will keep the membership informed of its progress.

The federal government has been no more helpful than the private foundations in providing assistance to new Ph.D.'s. There are no new programs in sight that might offer employment assistance for historians, and existing programs are not supported. Congress, for example, has refused to appropriate funds for the expanded National Historical Publications and Records Commission, which at one time seemed our best hope for federal employment assistance. Vigorous efforts by several learned societies to secure funds for the NHPRC have failed.

What, then, is to be done? The long-term welfare of the association is linked to what we do about the younger members of our profession—and what we do now. I reject the idea advanced by some that we should deny responsibility for their welfare, use our limited resources to serve the interests of our more fortunate members who have positions, and wait for better times. I also reject the notion that we need more information before we can act or that the problem is necessarily beyond our capacity. The problem of employment for historians is a long-term one. It is serious and likely to become more serious in the next decade, even if the present national recession ends soon. We should confront these realities and use our imagination and energy to begin now to develop a program of action.

In part our paralysis stems from a lack of confidence in the value of higher education and the value of history as a discipline. We should be firm and vocal in our conviction that there is a need for a greater, not fewer, number of people of trained intelligence and humanistic understanding. We must persuade our leaders in education, business, and government to allocate more of our national resources toward maintaining and expanding opportunities for higher education in history and related fields.

Any program the AHA develops should recognize that the task before us is too great to accomplish alone. We need to draw upon the intellectual and material resources of all historians and friends of history. We should realize that in our plans to help historians we cannot depend solely on public policy action, but must first mobilize the untapped resources of our members. I have initiated discussion about the job crisis with leaders of other historical associations and am convinced that a cooperative effort among the major historical associations is worthy of serious attention and effort. At the annual meeting I will report on the response of the AHA Council to a long-range program for “the promotion of historical studies,” “the broadening of historical knowledge among the general public,” the alleviation of the employment crisis, and the restoration of confidence in our discipline.

As I end this lengthy report I want to thank members of the Council for their support and members of my staff for their hard work and patience during my first year as executive director. To those association members who have taken the time to write to me with suggestions or complaints, and to all those who have responded to my requests for help, I want to express my thanks and appreciation.

REPORT OF THE CONTROLLER FOR THE YEAR ENDED JUNE 30, 1975

At the close of the fiscal year ended June 30, 1975, the total assets of the American Historical Association amounted to $1,264,793, as compared to $1,331,997 in 1974. This amount is the sum of the three major funds:

- a) General Fund—cash, temporary and permanent investments (the use of which for the purposes of the association is controlled by a resolution of the Council in 1960 as amended in 1973), $355,322.
- b) Special Funds and Grants—permanent and temporary investments, restricted as to the use of income and grants, $750,719.
- c) Plant Fund—property and equipment, less depreciation, $158,752.

In the figures presented above the book value of all permanent investments has been used. For further details, attention is directed to the auditor's report. All permanent investments are in the custody of the Fiduciary Trust Company of New York, under the direction of the association's board of trustees. The Fiduciary Trust Company's report is filed at the association's office and is available for inspection by interested members. Land and buildings of the association, carried at cost less depreciation, have a significantly higher estimated market value.

The budget for 1974-75 as adopted projected a deficit of $91,758. Actual deficit was $91,887 which included, though not anticipated, $41,694 loss incurred on security sales necessitated to ease the cash situation. Operating revenue declined from projections by $6,159. Advertising, sales, royalties, and administration fees, exceeded budgeted amounts by $26,410 or a 15.7% increase. Stringent controls to reduce operating expenses amounted to $51,870 or 6.4%. Expense reductions occurred principally in the areas of publication printing and distribution, salaries, house operations, and office supplies and expense.

The association's survival, amid significant increases in cost of goods and services, requires cost control and revenue-producing programs already initiated and contemplated in the forthcoming fiscal year. These include but are not limited to relocation of the AHR, separate publication of the RPA, and the Institutional Services Program.

Main Lafrentz & Co., certified public accountants, audit report and supplementary information detail are on file and available for inspection at the association's office.

In consort with the Executive Director and the Finance Committee, I welcome the opportunity to serve with the sincere objective of the association's financial stability.

The Council
American Historical Association

We have examined the balance sheet of the American Historical Association as of June 30, 1975 and 1974, and the related statements of revenue and expenses and fund balances for the years then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

It has been the practice of the American Historical Association to maintain its records on a general basis of cash receipts and disbursements, except for the recognition of depreciation on the Plant Fund's depreciable assets.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements present fairly the assets and liabilities of the American Historical Association at June 30, 1975 and 1974 (arising from cash transactions, except as noted in the preceding paragraph), and the related revenue collected, expenditures made, and fund balance changes during the years then ended, on a consistent basis.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

SUMMARY OF ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Fund accounting - The Association records its transactions in three separate, self-balancing funds. Each fund reflects only those transactions applicable to its designated functional area.

General Fund - Reflects transactions related to the general operations of the Association.

Special Funds and Grants - Reflects transactions under various prize funds and special projects that are funded by contributions and grants (restricted as to use by the donor) as well as by revenue generated by fund activities and investments.

Plant Fund - Reflects transactions relating to the property, plant and equipment owned by the Association, as purchased through transfers from the General Fund and charged to operations by that Fund in the year of acquisition.

Marketable securities - Marketable securities, consisting of permanent investments in the Matteson Account and temporary investments, are carried at cost. Permanent investments in the Regular Account are carried at the participants' cost of participation in such investments.

Property, plant and equipment - Property, plant and equipment are carried at cost, with depreciation being computed on the straight-line method. When assets are disposed of, the cost and related accumulated depreciation are removed from the accounts, and any remaining net book value is deducted from the Plant Fund balance.

Income taxes - The Association is exempt from Federal income tax under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation on Plant Fund assets, based on the rates shown below, was:

	1975	1974	Rates
Buildings	$4,908	$4,825	2-1/2 to 4%
Furniture and equipment	2,919	2,948	10%
Total charged to income	$7,827	$7,773

RETIREMENT PLAN

Eligible employees are covered by a contributory retirement plan which is funded through the purchase of individual annuity contracts from the Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association. The Association follows the practice of recording as its expense the total premiums paid, net of any termination refunds, on such contracts in each fiscal year. The net charges against revenue on account of retirement insurance premiums for the years ended June 30, 1975 and 1974, amounted to $17,679 and $11,580, respectively. Credits for cancellation of annuity contracts upon termination of employment may, with the consent of the Association, be paid to the individual if the annuity has not been in force for more than five years, and if the individual is not moving to another institution having the same plan. Ownership of the annuity contracts vests in the individual after it has been in force for five years.

UNRECORDED LIABILITY

At June 30, 1975, the Association had a material unrecorded liability of approximately $31,000, representing the cost of publishing the June 1975 issue of the American Historical Review. On a cash basis such amounts will be recorded in the period in which the disbursement is actually made.

CONTINGENT LIABILITY

Federal information returns as filed by the Association for the fiscal years 1972, 1973 and 1974 have been examined by the Internal Revenue Service. Although no deficiency notice has been received, adjustments proposed by the examining agent regarding unrelated business income could result in assessments by the Service approximating $22,000. The Association intends to contest any adjustments which may be proposed.

ACCOUNTANTS' OPINION ON SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

Our examination of the basic financial statements presented in the preceding section of this report was made primarily to form an opinion on such financial statements taken as a whole. Supplementary information, contained in the following pages, is not considered essential for the fair presentation of the assets and liabilities or revenue, expenses and changes in fund balances (arising from cash transactions) of the Association. However, the following data were subjected to the audit procedures applied in the examination of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, are fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

Founded in 1884 Chartered by Congress in 1889

Office: 400 A Street S.E., Washington, D. C. 20003

MEMBERSHIP: Persons interested in historical studies, whether professionally or otherwise, are invited to membership. Present membership ca. 16,500. Members elect the officers by ballot.

MEETINGS: The association holds an annual meeting with a three-day program, December 28–30 of each year, at which time many professional historical groups meet jointly with it. The Pacific Coast Branch holds separate meetings in August on the Pacific Coast and publishes the Pacific Historical Review.

PUBLICATIONS AND SERVICES: The American Historical Review, published five times a year in October, December, February, April, and June, is the major professional historical journal in America. It is sent to all members and available by subscription to others. In addition, the association publishes its Annual Report, pamphlets designed to aid teachers of history, bibliographical as well as other volumes, and the AHA Newsletter. To promote history and assist historians, the association offers many other services.

PRIZES: The Herbert B. Adams Prize of $300 awarded annually for a work in the field of European history. The Troyer Steel Anderson Prize awarded every ten years to the person whom the Council of the association considers to have made the most outstanding contribution to the advancement of the purposes of the association during the preceding ten years (next award, 1980). The George Louis Beer Prize of $300 awarded annually for a work on any phase of European international history since 1895. The Albert J. Beveridge Award of $1,000 awarded annually for the best book on the history of the United States, Canada, or Latin America. The Albert B. Corey Prize, sponsored jointly by the AHA and the Canadian Historical Association, of $2,000 awarded biennially for the best book on the history of Canadian-American relations or the history of both countries (next award, 1976). The John H. Dunning Prize of $300 awarded in the even-numbered years for a book on any subject relating to American history. The John K. Fairbank Prize in East Asian History of $500 awarded in the odd-numbered years for an outstanding book in the history of China proper, Vietnam, Chinese Central Asia, Mongolia, Manchuria, Korea, or Japan, since the year 1800. The Clarence H. Haring Prize of $500 to be awarded every five years to that Latin American who has published the most outstanding book in Latin American history during the preceding five years (next award, 1976). The Howard R. Marraro Prize of $500 awarded annually for the best work on any epoch of Italian cultural history or of Italian-American relations. The Robert Livingston Schuyler Prize of $500 awarded every five years for the best work in modern British and Commonwealth history (next award, 1976). The Watumull Prize of $1,000 awarded in the even-numbered years for a work on the history of India originally published in the United States.

DUES: Annual dues are based on income. For an income of over $30,000, dues are $40.00; between $20,000–$29,999, $35.00; $15,000–$19,999, $30.00; $10,000–$14,999, $20.00; below $10,000, $10.00. A joint membership (spouse of member) is $10.00 and life membership $650.00. All members receive the American Historical Review, the AHA Newsletter, and the program of the annual meeting, except for spouses of members who receive all membership mailings except the AHR.

FEATURES OF THE 1975 PROGRAM

1. Bicentennial. It is appropriate that on the eve of the Bicentennial Year a sequence of sessions should give emphasis to aspects of the American Revolution and its effects. Such sessions are marked by the official Bicentennial symbol.

In commemoration of the occasion, the AHA Bicentennial Committee will host a luncheon meeting on Sunday, December 28. Further details will appear in the November Newsletter.

2. International Women's Year. In recognition of 1975 as International Women's Year, the Program Committee has scheduled a variety of sessions which deal with the impact of women on world history. The IWY symbol denotes these sessions.

3. Atlanta: Past to Present. Professor Timothy J. Crimmins, of Georgia State University, has organized a series of tours which will point up the historical development of Atlanta. There will be an introductory slide presentation which will be followed by four tours. The program will be offered twice, on Sunday and Monday afternoons, December 28 and 29. Each tour, which costs $2.00, will be limited to forty persons, and it will be necessary to register in advance. Forms may be obtained from the office of the executive director, 400 A Street S.E., Washington, D. C. 20003.

4. Teaching: Discussions and Demonstrations. An effort is being made to give emphasis to problems confronting the teacher of history. On the evening prior to the general program, Professor C. Warren Hollister, vice-president of the AHA Teaching Division, will chair a special session in which, with members of his committee, he will call attention to vital problems facing teachers of history. During the three days of programs, sessions will emphasize different aspects of teaching and, in association with these, there will be a number of demonstrations. See the schedule of sessions for times and places of these sessions and demonstrations.

5. Colloquia. The Program Committee is introducing this year a small number of informal colloquia in which distinguished members of the profession have agreed to discuss aspects of their work in progress. These are not scheduled during the regular sessions, but will meet from 5:00 to 6:30 p.m. on Sunday, December 28. Those participating include Philip D. Curtin, David Donald, J. H. Hexter, R. R. Palmer, Charles Gibson, and Barbara Tuchman. Those interested must sign up in advance. Forms may be obtained from the office of the executive director, 400 A Street S.E., Washington, D. C. 20003. More details will appear in the October Newsletter.

6. Recent Ph.D.'s. In order to encourage recent Ph.D.'s to participate in the annual meeting, two sessions have been organized outside the regular sessions for them to give brief summaries of their work.

7. Abstracts. Abstracts of the papers are being published separately from the Program. They may be obtained for $1.50 prior to the meeting by writing to me at the University of Florida and will be available for $2.00 at the registration tables during the meeting.

TEACHING DEMONSTRATIONS

OHIO HISTORIANS' MEDIA GROUP

Hyatt Regency, Austrian Room

COORDINATOR: K. Austin Kerr, Ohio State University

This demonstration presents examples of historian-produced classroom media, including Japan on the Eve of Westernization; Invasion: Enemy Challenge and Russian Response; and Images of Industrialism: The United States, 1865–1919. Each presentation will have a brief introduction and discussion with the audience will follow.

HOW TO LOCATE AUDIO-VISUAL RESOURCES FOR COLLEGE HISTORY TEACHING

Hyatt Regency, French Room

COORDINATOR: Gerald R. Kovac, West Lafayette, Indiana

This demonstration includes discussion of The Fourth Revolution (Carnegie Report, 1972) and how audio-visual aids can supplement teaching; visual introduction to commonly used software; slide program with audio-tape accompaniment, presenting a sample of resource catalogs and guides; and a display of catalogs and guides. Audience participation is encouraged.

Sunday, December 28: 5:00–7:00 p.m.

TEACHING ETHNIC AND MINORITY HISTORY WITH AUDIO-VISUALS

Hyatt Regency, Italian Room

COORDINATORS: Michael D. DeMichele and John L. Earl, III
University of Scranton

This demonstrates an approach to the teaching of ethnic history through films, seminars and television, by bringing the local community into the classroom for presentations and discussions, videotaping the proceedings for future use, and then sending the students into the community to complete academic projects. It includes an oral presentation on how the course was developed and a thirty-minute video-taped composite which demonstrates the different ethnic groups that participated. Audience involvement is encouraged.

MATERIALS AND METHODS FOR TEACHING UNDER-PREPARED STUDENTS

Hyatt Regency, Essex Room

COORDINATOR: Judith M. Walter, New York City Community College,
City University of New York

The under-prepared student in the basic history course is a major problem for many college instructors. This session demonstrates some strategies and materials which are proving useful in teaching history to students with below-average reading and study skills.

THE AHA FILM PROJECT

Hyatt Regency, Lancaster Room A

COORDINATOR: J. Joseph Huthmacher, University of Delaware

The AHA's Film and Document Series was undertaken to develop a means of using film resources in the study and teaching of history that would educate students in criticizing visual sources and would permit them to study film individually. It resulted in the production of four half-hour film cartridges, edited from the films Becket, Martin Luther, Juarez, and The Emperor and the General, each with a parallel book of readings, and now available from the Indiana University Audio-Visual Center.

Unequal Justice

Lawyers and Social Change in Modern America

JEROLD S. AUERBACH, Wellesley College. □ In a forcefully argued analysis of the modern history of the American legal profession, Auerbach maintains that an ominous gap exists between law and justice and demonstrates how a public profession has failed to assume social responsibility.

January 1976

352 pp.

$13.95

Toward a Planned Society

From Franklin D. Roosevelt to Richard Nixon

OTIS L. GRAHAM, JR., University of California, Santa Barbara. □ Despite popular aversion to such "radical" ideas, Graham asserts America is moving toward a planned society. Graham shows how and why this is happening and analyzes the two planning models America has developed: the Rooseveltian and the Nixonian.

January 1976

300 pp.

A Documentary History of Slavery in North America

Edited by WILLIE LEE ROSE, The Johns Hopkins University. □ This volume offers an incomparable collection of 106 documents on American slavery from the colonial period through the Civil War. The documents are divided topically into ten sections: Slavery in the English Colonies of North America; Slavery Survives the American Revolution; Revolts, Plots, and Rumors of Plots; Slaves on the Block, Slaves on the Road; The Slave and the Law; The Slave's Protest: Resistance Short of Rebellion; The Slave's Work; Master and Man; Men, Women, and Children; and After Hours: Beliefs and Amusements. In addition to a substantial general introduction to the text, Professor Rose provides a commentary before each document.

The American Party Systems

Stages of Political Development

Second Edition

Edited by WILLIAM NISBET CHAMBERS, Washington University, and WALTER DEAN BURNHAM, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. □ Widely acclaimed as a standard work on American political parties, The American Party Systems brings together essays by historians and political scientists concerning the origins, characteristics, and functions of the American political party system.

The Second Edition contains a new chapter by Walter Dean Burnham on American politics of the 1970s. In his provocative essay, Burnham foresees the breakdown of party influence on voting patterns and a shift toward personal allegiance and direct voter appeal.

From the Dardanelles to Oran

Studies of the Royal Navy at War and Peace 1915-1940

ARTHUR J. MARDER, University of California, Irvine.

□ Professor Marder continues his research on the Royal Navy in five essays dealing with controversial subjects during and after the first World War. He reconsiders the naval aspects of the Dardanelles and whether the Royal Navy adequately learned the lessons of war. A final and major essay deals with the sacrifice of French warships at Oran.

The Limits of Reason

The German Democratic Press and the Collapse of the Weimar Republic

MODRIS EKSTEINS. □ The Nazi take-over in 1933 was so swift that historians have generally accepted National Socialism's description of events as a "seizure of power." However, this view obscures the advanced state of collapse in the Weimar Republic before Hitler became chancellor. Focusing on three prominent "democratic" newspaper firms, this study suggests how extensively the foundations of the Republic had eroded and why National Socialism could so easily assume power. PATHWAYS TO THE PRESENT

A NEW HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

By Bernard A. Weisberger

Vassar College

"A new and different kind of textbook, which keeps conventional strengths but breaks away from past limitations. It is shorter than many traditional 'surveys,' and less academic in tone. It is, above all, selective. Its focus is on good narrative and on raising questions that students will find valuable in an immediate and personal way. . . .

"It assumes that there are various ways of weaving connections among events and that not all must be used. It is, therefore, nonlinear. Its chapters are in chronological order and cover the whole span of U.S. history. But each may deal with a broad or a narrow time period and may take up one or several topics. The text covers them largely through stories that invite speculation about some basic questions that open each chapter. As a rather broad generalization, these questions fall mainly in the realm of inquiry about societies and how they work. . . .

"PATHWAYS TO THE PRESENT sometimes chooses meaningful comparisons over comprehensiveness to zero in on issues that have contemporary importance. This approach gives extra flexibility to the teacher, who may decide to supplement it with whatever background information seems desirable for a particular discussion. . . . [The book's important goal is] to give students a basic grasp of broad themes, main currents, and unanswered riddles in American history, and in human life as a whole. . . . Its key rules, which teachers may well (and willingly) bear in mind, are these: (1) Teachers do not have to tell everything; (2) grand, overall designs do not have to emerge; and (3) the cardinal sin is to be uninteresting. Historians may be dull. History should never be."

DETERRENCE IN AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY

Theory and Practice

Alexander L. George

Richard Smoke

Critics of U.S. Cold War policies have pointed to the danger of overreliance on deterrence threats, but this is the first systematic, in-depth examination of the historical experience itself. Drawing on studies of eleven actual cases after World War II, the authors use a powerful new research technique—"focused comparison"—to pinpoint critical deficiencies in deterrence theory and practice. They argue persuasively that, in the post-Cold War world, Washington must increasingly resort to incentives and "positive influences" to resolve conflicts with other powers.

FOR YOUR COURSES IN '76—

THE AMERICAN PAST: Conflicting Interpretations of the Great Issues,

Fourth Edition, Sidney Fine and Gerald S. Brown, both, University of Michigan

Now available in a new fourth edition, this highly successful collection of readings:

- brings into sharp focus the major issues of the American past
- presents conflicting interpretations of these issues
- draws its selections from historical literature often inaccessible to the college student.

The cold war, the women's movement, and U.S. involvement in Vietnam are among the timely topics considered.

MEDIEVAL HISTORY AND CIVILIZATION,

Daniel D. McGarry, St. Louis University

IMPORTANT FEATURES OF THIS OUTSTANDING BOOK:

- comprehensive coverage that allows the instructor to shift his own emphasis as he sees fit
- extensive treatment of a period often slighted in other texts—the Early Middle Ages
- discussion of such often neglected areas as the Slavic states, including Russia, the Iberian states, and Scandinavia
- correlation of economic, social, and political developments
- thorough coverage of the Church and medieval religion, including definitions and discussions of basic medieval religious institutions and developments.

A HISTORY OF URBAN AMERICA,

Second Edition, Charles N. Glaab, University of Toledo; and A. Theodore Brown, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee

The first and still the best text on the rise and development of our cities is now available in an expanded new edition.

Beginning with colonial cities and ending with the suburbs and "super-cities" of the 1970s, A HISTORY OF URBAN AMERICA features:

- three new chapters on twentieth century urban phenomena—the metropolis, federal urban policy, and the suburbs
- significantly expanded discussion of the nineteenth century, with increased coverage of cultural life and the impact of industrialization and change on the city
- an updated and greatly enlarged bibliography.

1976 approx. 384 pages paper

RENAISSANCE AND REFORMATION, 1300-1648,

Third Edition, G. R. Elton, The University of Cambridge

Now in its third edition, RENAISSANCE AND REFORMATION is a collection of readings that:

- covers a broad range of topics—109 extracts focus on leading issues and personalities
- is particularly strong in primary sources but also includes several historiographical pieces
- includes interpretive commentaries by contemporary historians to introduce main ideas and concepts of the age and to help students place topics in perspective
- emphasizes the actual problems of government and their solutions and pays special attention to such topics as religion and theology, humanist thought, and problems of rulers.

ATLAS OF EARLY AMERICAN HISTORY

The Revolutionary Era, 1760-1790

LESTER J. CAPPON, Editor-in-Chief
BARBARA BARTZ PETCHENIK, Cartographic Editor
JOHN H. LONG, Assistant Editor

The Atlas of Early American History is a truly remarkable publishing achievement for the nation's Bicentennial. The result of years of research, its 286 superb maps, 271 reproduced in as many as six colors, describe all aspects of America from 1760 to 1790, from demographic to cultural characteristics, from military history to manufacturing, from politics to commerce. Executed at The Newberry Library in Chicago, the specially drawn maps reflect the latest cartographic advances and depict with unequalled clarity and accuracy a treasury of facts concerning a fundamental period in U.S. history. In magnificence, scope, and detail, this atlas will be unsurpassed for many years to come.

Published by Princeton University Press for The Newberry Library and The Institute of Early American History and Culture.

About 200 pages • 286 maps, 271 in color • 13 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 18 $\frac{1}{2}$ "

Blacks in the New World, edited by AUGUST MEIER

SLAVERY AND THE NUMBERS GAME

A Critique of Time on the Cross

Herbert G. Gutman. Challenging the radical reinterpretation of Southern history presented in Time on the Cross, Gutman shows how the widely-acclaimed book is "filled with egregious errors" and provides important new information on such pivotal issues as slave occupational structure and the slave family. "... devastating." — Richard Sutch. 192 pages. Cloth, $7.95; paper, $2.95.

BLACK AMERICANS AND THE WHITE MAN'S BURDEN, 1898-1903

Willard B. Gatewood, Jr. Gatewood creates a panoramic view of Afro-American life at the turn of the century as he shows how America's still-oppressed black population dealt with the dilemmas posed by the Spanish-American War — when white Americans were eager to take up arms to "liberate" the dark-skinned people of Cuba, Puerto Rico, and the Philippines. "... one of the most original works to come out in this field. . . ." — Benjamin Quarles. 350 pages. $12.95.

A GHETTO TAKES SHAPE

Black Cleveland, 1870-1930

Kenneth L. Kusmer. This systematic investigation of the development of Cleveland's black community based on extensive use of manuscript collections of local black leaders and organizations provides the most detailed analysis of black occupations available, covers a longer time span, and deals with more aspects of black life than any other study of ghettoization to date. 320 pages. $10.95.

THE SEARCH FOR A BLACK NATIONALITY

Black Colonization and Emigration, 1787-1863

Floyd J. Miller. In the first comprehensive history of black emigration and colonization movements based on prodigious research in primary materials, Miller analyzes the ideas of the significant black leaders of the period — Newport Gardner, Martin R. Delany, and the Reverends Daniel Coker, Lewis Woodson, James Holly, and Henry Garnet — proving that emigration was indeed a persistent and central concern for Afro-Americans between the Revolution and the Civil War. 320 pages. $10.95.

THE BOOKER T. WASHINGTON PAPERS

edited by Louis R. Harlan
Volume 4, 1895-98

assistant editors, Stuart B. Kaufman, Barbara S. Kraft, and Raymond W. Smock. Covering the period in Washington's career after the Atlanta Compromise thrust him into prominence until December, 1898, when President McKinley visited Tuskegee, this volume demonstrates Washington's growing fame and public acceptance. Included is correspondence with W. E. B. Du Bois, William James, George Washington Carver, Susan B. Anthony, and Grover Cleveland. 740 pages. $20.00.

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT AND UNITED STATES FOREIGN POLICY

The Apprenticeship Years, 1900-1908

Ralph Eldin Minger. Chronicling the future president's diplomatic career in the Philippines, Panama, Cuba, Japan, and China, Minger traces Taft's immense intellectual journey from idealism to realism and sheds light on many of his actions as President of the United States. 240 pages. $9.50.

HIRED HANDS AND PLOWBOYS

Farm Labor in the Midwest, 1815-60

David E. Schob. Through hundreds of details drawn from farmers' records, diaries and letters, county histories, newspapers, and periodicals, Schob presents a fascinating account of farm labor — a long neglected aspect of American life — thus filling a major gap in the history of agriculture, labor, and the frontier. 320 pages. $10.95.

UNCLE SAM'S FARMERS

The New Deal Communities in the Lower Mississippi Valley

Donald Holley. Studying the new communities movement within a local framework, Holley dramatizes the federal government's shortcomings in dealing with the chronic poor, and suggests some of the human and technical limitations to efforts at genuine social reform. 328 pages. $14.50.

CARTHAGE CONSPIRACY

The Trial of the Accused Assassins of Joseph Smith

Dallin H. Oaks and Marvin S. Hill. In a volume which deals with the general problem of Mormon-non-Mormon conflict, as well as with the dramatic story of Joseph Smith and his alleged assassins, Oaks and Hill show that Justice sometimes winks at high crimes that are politically motivated and popularly supported. 235 pages. $7.95.

LIBERATING WOMEN'S HISTORY

Theoretical and Critical Essays

edited by Berenice A. Carroll. Reflecting the diverse theoretical positions which have emerged in women's history in recent years, this collection of twenty-two essays — fourteen published for the first time — meets the need for critical historiography, tests theories and assumptions against the evidence of experience, and offers conceptual clarification and new directions for research in the field. 350 pages. January. Cloth, $10.00; paper, $3.95.

TERRITORIAL POLITICS AND GOVERNMENT IN MONTANA, 1864-89

Clark C. Spence. In the first study of Montana's years as a territory to intertwine political with economic forces and national currents with the institutional structure of federal territorial government, Spence illuminates the intriguing course of the state's political development from initial chaos to eventual statehood. 345 pages. $11.50.

THE FORMATION OF THE AMERICAN SCIENTIFIC COMMUNITY

The American Association for the Advancement of Science, 1848-1860

Sally Gregory Kohlstedt. This analysis of both the nature and function of the AAAS during its formative years goes beyond a simple history of the institution to shed light on a dynamic era in American social and intellectual development. 320 pages. $10.95.

Cambridge Has Good News for Historians

The Event You Have Been Waiting for— Completion of The Cambridge Ancient History

Volume II, Part 2 of THE CAMBRIDGE ANCIENT HISTORY has now been published, making available the entire text of this monumental and unsurpassed work. Part 2 is The History of the Middle East and the Aegean Region c. 1380-1000 B.C., now in a completely revised third edition. The result of long and exacting labor on the part of the world's finest scholars, it has been prepared under the editorial direction of I. E. S. Edwards, the late C. J. Gadd, N. G. L. Hammond and E. Sollberger. The price is $37.50.

The complete set consists of 12 volumes, with Volumes I and II newly revised and consisting of two parts each, making a total of 14 separate books.

Publication of the volume of plates illustrating text volumes I-II is scheduled for early 1976, and the expected price is $25.00.

A Completely New Cambridge History of Africa

Cambridge is delighted to present THE CAMBRIDGE HISTORY OF AFRICA, an undertaking on the grand scale that has established Cambridge histories as the standard works in their respective fields. This new history is launched with Volume 4, THE CAMBRIDGE HISTORY OF AFRICA: The Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries. The general editors of this proposed eight-volume set are Roland Oliver and J. D. Fage; the editor of Volume 4 is Richard Gray, Professor of the History of Africa, School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London. Among the international group of contributors are E. A. Alpers and C. Ehret, both of UCLA. The price of this initial volume is $42.50.

Final Volume on Colonialism in Africa Published

Volume 4 brings to completion this thorough, five-volume study covering all of Sub-Saharan Africa throughout the colonial period. This volume is COLONIALISM IN AFRICA 1870-1960: The Economics of Colonialism, edited by Peter Duignan and L. H. Gann, the team responsible for three out of the four other volumes in this unique work. It is a large volume containing over 150 tables and will probably be priced at $35.00.

Now in Inexpensive Paperbacks—Standard Cambridge Histories

Volumes 1 & 2 of the authoritative NEW CAMBRIDGE MODERN HISTORY, an established acquisition for both college and public libraries, are now accessible to the individual historian and student, with full text and new Preface presented in inexpensive paperback editions. Volume I, The Renaissance 1493–1520, is edited by G. R. Potter and D. Hay. Volume II, The Reformation 1520–1559 is edited by G. R. Elton. Each volume is priced at $10.95.

An abridgement and revision of the well-known, eight-volume Cambridge Medieval History, the two-volume SHORTER CAMBRIDGE MEDIEVAL HISTORY is a thorough, yet concise, treatment of the period and is profusely illustrated. Edited by the late C. W. Previté-Orton, former Professor of Medieval History at Cambridge, the volumes are: 1. The Later Roman Empire to the Twelfth Century; and 2. The Twelfth Century to the Renaissance. Each volume $10.95.

Acknowledged as the most authoritative, most comprehensive, most beautifully printed and illustrated work of its kind, THE CAMBRIDGE HISTORY OF THE BIBLE has been published in paperback for individual use. The three-volume set consists of Volume 1, From the Beginnings to Jerome edited by P. R. Ackroyd and C. F. Evans; Volume 2, The West from the Fathers to the Reformation edited by G. W. H. Lampe; Volume 3, The West from the Reformation to the Present Day edited by S. L. Greenslade. A valuable set at $9.95 each volume, the complete set $24.50.

A New Volume in the Cambridge History of Iran

The third to be published in this eight-volume set, Volume 4 is THE CAMBRIDGE HISTORY OF IRAN: The Period from the Arab Invasion to the Saljuqs. It is edited by R. N. Frye and priced at $29.50.

THE LIVING PAST:

Western Historiographical Traditions
Alfred J. Andrea and Wolfe
W. Schmokel, both of the University of Vermont

Every age views the past in relation to its own problems, attitudes, and categories of thought. Drawing from antiquity to the twentieth century, THE LIVING PAST captures changing conceptions of the human condition in lively narrative accounts of representative historians. Presented chronologically, each selection begins with a short essay that shows how the cultural and intellectual climate of each era found expression in the works of its historymakers.

THE AMERICAN OBSERVER

By Richard Skolnik, City College,
The City University of New York

Now America's past makes the papers. THE AMERICAN OBSERVER contains 12 simulated newspapers taken from important moments in American history. Each is a lively, flavorful compendium of a year's events. Students derive the political, social, and intellectual climate of the times while engrossed in stories of colonial life, Civil War, etc.

So let your students read all about it—without many large texts. THE AMERICAN OBSERVER is a comprehensive, two-volume supplement for the American history survey.

DIPLOMACY DURING THE AMERICAN CIVIL WAR

By D. P. Crook, University of Queensland

This is a paperback abridgement of Crook's THE NORTH, THE SOUTH, AND THE POWERS 1861-1865—the only recent book to study the Civil War in the context of international politics. It examines the quest of the Confederacy for European recognition, as well as the Lincoln administration's efforts to forestall foreign intervention.

UNCERTAIN FRIENDSHIP

American-French Relations Through the Cold War

By Marvin R. Zahniser, The Ohio State University

A volume in the series America and the World, edited by Robert A. Divine UNCERTAIN FRIENDSHIP focuses upon the long history of conflict in French-American relations. It presents, in a single volume, an interpretive survey from the American colonial period to 1970. It argues that factors of power and "interest" played a far more important role in shaping French-American relations than did the activities of individual diplomats or statesmen.

THE AMERICAN CENTURY:

A History of the United States Since the 1890s

By Walter LaFeber and Richard

Polenberg, both of Cornell University

THE AMERICAN CENTURY analyzes the forces that have shaped our society from the 1890s to the present. Focusing on the interrelationship between foreign and domestic policy, it applies the most recent research to such topics as urbanization, industrialization, racial consciousness, and war.

Half of THE AMERICAN CENTURY is devoted to events since 1941—a period often slighted in other history texts. This half includes sections on Vietnamese history, Latin American developments, and Russia in the 1940s, so that students can understand the global context in which Americans lived. And to give them the thrill of contemporaneity, the book emphasizes many post-1972 affairs: the Middle East War, the Energy Crisis, Wounded Knee, Watergate.

Each chapter of THE AMERICAN CENTURY contains an exciting photoessay on the art, sports, religion, music, radio, and cinema of the time. Songs, the origin of boxing, James Cagney movies.... Your students will experience the popular culture of these periods brought to new life as each photoessay reflects the nation's social, political, and economic currents.

Unlike other American history texts, THE AMERICAN CENTURY won't take a century to read; it's concise, comprehensive, eminently interesting. And as a core text, it's brief enough to allow you to use it with a variety of supplementary books.

Available with an Instructor's Manual.

RIVER THROUGH TIME:

The Course of Western Civilization

By C. Warren Hollister, University of California, Santa Barbara, John F. H. New, University of Waterloo, James D. Hardy Jr., Louisiana State University, and Roger L. Williams, University of Wyoming

Seldom has the history of Western Civilization been presented to students in such brief, authoritative form. Less than 600 pages, RIVER THROUGH TIME unites the scholarship of four outstanding European specialists to give beginning undergraduates what they need: a lively, readable guide to the growth of their world.

RIVER is composed of five previously issued texts—but you'd never know by reading it. The chapter and period transitions are remarkably smooth. Accuracy is impeccable. And the writing—clear, forceful, witty—enables you to teach this material effectively to students. This is a succinct accomplishment.

A MAJOR REVISION OF A CLASSIC

August Meier and Elliott Rudwick
FROM PLANTATION
TO GHETTO Third Edition

Maps, Selected Bibliographic Essay, Index $3.95

This new edition of the widely adopted paperback is well suited for use as a core or supplemental text in American History survey courses and in courses dealing with black history in America from the beginnings to the present. The length, readability, and price make this book ideal for assignment to freshmen and sophomores.

The Third Edition includes the findings of the most recent scholarship on slavery, comparative race relations in the New World, free blacks, and the black urban experience. The chapter on slavery has been thoroughly recast, and a completely new chapter has been added assessing the results of the black revolt of the 1960's and the transformation of black activism in the 1970's. Other topics emphasized: recent black occupational changes, blacks and the trade union movement, the rise of "affirmative action," the influence of federal agencies and judiciary, and the new role of blacks in politics.

"A classic indication of how the multi-disciplinary approach can enrich historical understanding."

THE MINUTEMEN AND THEIR WORLD

Cloth $6.95, paper $2.95

This fascinating narrative reconstructs the social and political patterns of pre-Revolutionary life in Concord, the growing intrusion of the colonial crisis into the community, the hesitant mobilization for war, the events in Lexington and Concord on April 19, 1775, and the subsequent peacetime careers of selected Minutemen. Mr. Gross has used contemporary diaries, tax lists, genealogies, and other public records to provide a human dimension to the American Revolution. The result is informative, interpretive, and highly readable. Robert A. Gross is Adjunct Assistant Professor of History at Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Worcester, Massachusetts.

China's Imperial Past

An Introduction to Chinese History and Culture

Charles O. Hucker. This work offers a panoramic survey of the development of Chinese civilization from prehistory to about 1850, when the Taiping Rebellion and the incursions of the West began the agonizing transition from the old China to the new. The author's approach is primarily interpretive, emphasizing patterns of change and development rather than factual details, but he never loses sight of the particularities that made traditional Chinese civilization one of the richest in human history. He divides Chinese history into three major epochs: a formative age, from high antiquity to the unification of China under the Ch'in in the third century B.C.; an early imperial age, from the Han dynasty through the breakdown of the T'ang; and a later imperial age, from the Sung dynasty to the mid-nineteenth century. The epochs are considered in topical chapters—on general history, political institutions, socio-economic organizations, religion and thought, and literature and the arts. An Epilogue comments on aspects of Chinese history since 1850. Illustrated with plates, maps, and charts. $17.50

Warlord Politics in China, 1916-1928

Hsi-sheng Ch'i. This first comprehensive analytical treatment of 20th-century Chinese warlordism approaches regional militarism as a generic phenomenon of Chinese politics in a period of disunion and in the process greatly clarifies what has been by far the murkiest and most confusing era of recent Chinese history. $12.50

The Matrimonial Trials of Henry VIII

Henry Ansgar Kelly. Were the King's grounds for attempting to put aside his first marriage merely excuses to gratify his passion for Anne Boleyn or had he substantial reasons for deeming the union invalid? Using hitherto unknown or unexploited documentary evidence, this study forces significant alterations in the traditional answers to these and other questions concerning Henry's marital problems. The Politics of Oil in Venezuela

Franklin Tugwell. Treating the political policies and processes associated with the production and export of oil from 1958 to the present, this case study focuses on the strategies used by Venezuelan leaders to influence governmental policy toward the state-owned oil company and some of the world's largest multinational corporations. $8.95

China's Modern Economy in Historical Perspective

Edited by Dwight H. Perkins. Challenging many previously accepted generalizations about China's modern economy, these papers examine the extent to which economic developments after 1949 depended on features unique to China and to Chinese history, as well as on the socialist reorganization of Chinese society. $13.85

Women in Chinese Society

Edited by Margery Wolf & Roxane Witke. These papers represent the first scholarly attempt to provide a baseline for understanding the massive changes in Chinese women's lives in our times. Topics include 17th-century attitudes toward women, women writers of the 1920's and 1930's, and the effect on rural women of the advent of the People's Republic. $12.50

Bulgaria During the Second World War

Marshall Lee Miller. Luther and the False Brethren

Mark U. Edwards, Jr. From 1522 to his death, Luther clashed with a number of major evangelical opponents over what we would regard today as relatively minor matters of doctrine and ritual. A grand alliance and a great friendship, revealed in "one of the most important books of our time."*

ROOSEVELT TO CHURCHILL, December 8, 1941: "Today all of us are in the same boat . . . and it is a ship which will not and cannot be sunk."

CHURCHILL TO ROOSEVELT, March 17, 1945: "Peace with Germany and Japan on our terms will not bring much rest to you and me . . . As I observed last time, when the war of the giants is over, the wars of the pygmies will begin."

Agreeing, arguing, cajoling or complaining, Franklin Roosevelt and Winston Churchill created one of history's most extraordinary exchanges of correspondence—1,700 messages that helped shape their world and ours.

Now, from these wartime communications, long kept secret and completely declassified only in 1972, the editors have chosen 600 of the most significant letters, thoroughly annotating them and setting them in accurate historical context with a long general introduction.

The volumes in this series make outstanding recent investigations of major topics in European history readily accessible to students. Some of the selections are reprinted from scholarly journals and monographs, others are original contributions, and some appear in English translation for the first time. The selections are fully footnoted, and each volume contains a bibliography, so that each book is simultaneously a stimulating resource for instruction, an up-to-date guide to the scholarly literature, and a valuable aid to research.

CIVILIZATIONS: WESTERN AND WORLD is a two-volume paperback survey text that represents a real alternative to the text you've been using. It was carefully designed to help students absorb the vast amount of material texts of this kind must necessarily cover. The level, organization, and format are geared specifically for the introductory-level student, and there are numerous built-in learning aids. CIVILIZATIONS: WESTERN AND WORLD surveys the development of Western civilization — from prehistory to the present — against the background of world history. The authors have seen to it that a good balance is maintained between historical data and interpretation/analysis. An Instructor's Manual is available.

John H. Cary

Julius Weinberg

Cleveland State University

Designed to complement the basic survey text rather than repeat it, the two paperback volumes of THE SOCIAL FABRIC concentrate on the social history of the American people — the daily lives of a variety of Americans. John Cary and Julius Weinberg have collected scholarly yet extraordinarily graphic and appealing secondary source materials that correspond thematically and chronologically with the central issues taken up in the American History survey course.

Colonial America

Essays in Political and Social Development
Second Edition

Stanley N. Katz

University of Chicago

Newly revised, the popular COLONIAL AMERICA brings together recent scholarly essays on the political and social development of the American colonies before the Revolution. The collection demonstrates the impact of advances in the social sciences on the study of colonial history. Ten of the original twenty-two essays have been replaced in the Second Edition. Prof. Katz has added especially to the coverage of black and Indian history; he has also given new emphasis to urban and economic history. All essays are reprinted in full, with charts and footnotes.

TIME's Special 1776 Issue

Educational Edition

The unique Educational Edition of TIME Magazine's Special 1776 Issue reports on the news of July 4, 1776: virtually all of TIME's contemporary topical sections are included, providing a broad view of American life in 1776 and showing the effects of revolution on business, the arts, religion, and world opinion. Based on extensive research in eighteenth-century chronicles, all "news" stories are completely factual and historically accurate. The Educational Edition features important supplementary material that is not available in the regular newsstand edition: an introductory essay by David J. Rothman (Columbia University), a chronological chart (1775-1789), demographic tables, and an extensive annotated bibliography. All advertising (included in the newsstand edition) has been omitted from the Educational Edition.

Edmund S. Morgan's

important new work
explores the central paradox of American history

American Slavery American Freedom

THE ORDEAL OF COLONIAL VIRGINIA

When the English first thought about colonizing America, they planned to liberate Indians and blacks enslaved by the Spanish and to rehabilitate their unemployed countrymen in an integrated community. Virginia was where it started. But the profits from growing tobacco turned the colony's history to one of suffering, cruelty, exploitation, and ultimately, slavery.

However something of the dream remained, and with the rise of slavery at the end of the seventeenth century it revived. Freedom took root in slavery. And although it proved a poor base for freedom, Americans may owe more to Virginia's combination of the two than we have been willing to admit. It becomes abundantly clear as the story unfolds in Professor Morgan's fascinating new book.

WRITINGS ON AMERICAN HISTORY: A SUBJECT BIBLIOGRAPHY OF ARTICLES continues for article-length literature the concept of the original WRITINGS ON AMERICAN HISTORY, which will cease publication with the 1961 volume now in preparation. Beginning with the 1973-74 volume of the new Writings, and continuing in the now available 1974-75 volume, articles from more than 400 journals have been classified not only into chronological and geographical categories but also into 60 subject categories defined by scholars. Since the old WRITINGS did not include the period 1962-73, a new subject bibliography of articles has been prepared to cover the eleven-year "gap." This work, which utilizes the subject categories of the other publications, is comprehensive and an invaluable research tool. All the publications include an author index.

WESTERN ATTITUDES TOWARD DEATH

From the Middle Ages to the Present

Philippe Ariès

Translated by Patricia M. Ranum

"In four brief sparkling essays . . . Ariès traces Western man's attitudes toward mortality from the early medieval conception of death as the familiar collective destiny of the human race to the modern tendency, so pronounced in industrial societies, to hide death as if it were an embarrassing family secret." — Newsweek

American History Texts

THE ESSENTIALS OF AMERICAN HISTORY Second Edition

Richard N. Current, University of North Carolina at Greensboro new

T. Harry Williams, Louisiana Frank Freidel, Harvard University

W. Elliot Brownlee, University of California, Santa Barbara

This is the comprehensive, condensed version of one of the most popular and distinguished texts in its field, AMERICAN HISTORY: A SURVEY. Written by three outstanding scholars and edited and updated by Professor Elliot Brownlee, the text presents the main political, economic, diplomatic, military, social and cultural themes of American history from the founding of the colonies to the present. This edition has been expanded to include full treatment of Vietnam, the Nixon years, minorities, women, and social and economic history. Interpretative introductions, lists of suggested readings, and the widely-acclaimed "Where Historians Disagree" essays are retained in this edition. Instructor's Manual Available.

AMERICAN HISTORY: A SURVEY Fourth Edition

Richard N. Current, University of North Carolina at Greensboro

T. Harry Williams, Louisiana State University

Frank Freidel, Harvard University

The fourth edition of one of the most popular accounts of American history provides a valuable combination of insight, skill, and effective teaching. The evidence is the simple fact that hundreds of thousands of students have learned their history from this book. The authors weave a full, vigorous narrative as they explore this nation's attempt to achieve distinctly American political and social ideals, and the tensions aroused by the discrepancies between these ideals and the realities. Instructor's Manual Available.

AMERICA IN THE TWENTIETH CENTURY Fourth Edition

Frank Freidel, Harvard University new

Both the rapid course of events and the equally swift flow of new contributions to historical scholarship have necessitated the thorough recasting of this outstanding text in its fourth edition. Not only does this edition follow developments into the bicentennial years, but in keeping with recent research and interests, it further explores demography; the role of the electorate; and especially the contributions of women, blacks, Indians, and Spanish-speaking Americans. To fit changing classroom requirements, the text is much more concise.

February, 1976 512 pages Code: 31995

FROM SLAVERY TO FREEDOM Fourth Edition

John Hope Franklin, University of Chicago

This is still the most comprehensive and complete study of the black experience in America, relating the problems of Black Americans to the whole of American history and stressing the disparity between American theory and practice. An enduring classic.

Published, 1974 548 pages paperbound Code: 31800

Western Civilization Texts

A HISTORY OF THE MODERN WORLD Fourth Edition

R. R. Palmer, Yale University Joel Colton, Duke University

One of the most highly-praised history texts published, A History of the Modern World is as successful as ever in its fourth edition. Surveying the failures and accomplishments of European Civilization since 1500, the authors emphasize situations and movements of international scope so that national histories are subordinated and events and factors are closely related to world history. A SHORT HISTORY OF WESTERN CIVILIZATION

Fourth Edition

John B. Harrison and Richard E. Sullivan, Michigan State University

The fourth edition of the mainstream introduction to Western Civilization is now available in a two-volume paperback format. Within an organization of 60 concise chapters, Professors Harrison and Sullivan present the basic facts of Western Civilization from 4000 B.C. to the present, leaving room for the instructor to insert interpretation and philosophy in the classroom or through collateral readings. Instructor's Manual Available. Published, 1975

FEUDALISM IN JAPAN Second Edition

Peter Duus, Stanford University new

The new edition of Professor Duus' study of Japanese feudalism retains the comparative approach—Japanese "daimyo" is contrasted against the baronage systems of the European Middle Ages. The chronology covers the period from 3000 A.D. through to the beginning of the twentieth century. A new feature is the epilogue, "Legacy of Feudalism," which traces the influence of the feudalistic mind on contemporary culture in Japan.

World History Text

HISTORY OF THE WORLD

J. M. Roberts, Merton College, Oxford

Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., a publisher known for excellence in the field of history, is pleased to announce the publication of this narrative survey of world history. The central theme and organizing principle of the text is the evolution of mankind's control over his social, psychological, political, and physical environment. The author consistently examines evolving processes—why certain factors were influential in the development of traditions, and how change was effected—emphasizing theme and interpretation rather than fact and detail. His approach lends cohesion to the narrative and helps the student to understand the development of civilizations and the persistence of certain human problems. The comparative emphasis leads to an appreciation of the similarities and differences of the major civilizations while the treatment of the wide sweep of world events illuminates the need for cultural interdependence. Instructor's Manual Available.

GREAT ISSUES IN WESTERN CIVILIZATION Third Edition

Brian Tierney, Cornell University Donald Kagan, Yale University

L. Pearce Williams, Cornell University

Now available in a new edition, this two-volume reader sheds light on both the development of Western Civilization and the process of historical inquiry. Historical events and issues from Ancient Greece through the Cold War are studied through primary sources and contemporary historical interpretations. Over forty per cent of the documents and readings are new to this edition. Instructor's Manual Available.

THE FRENCH REVOLUTION:

CONFLICTING INTERPRETATIONS Second Edition

Frank A. Kafker and James M. Laux, both of the University of Cincinnati

Thirty selections by leading scholars, past and present, examine the profound historical problems of the French Revolution. The wide variety of approaches, methodologies, political biases, and religious backgrounds, will stir students to their own analyses. New in this edition are selections from Godechot, Soboul, Rudé, Cobb, Mathiez, and others.

An important and well accepted teaching tool has been revised to respond to your teaching needs ...

Brinton • Christopher • Wolff

The NEW 5th Edition (1976) of A HISTORY OF CIVILIZATION reflects the latest scholarship in western civilization while retaining the successful approach of the earlier editions — a teaching approach that combines a lucid style with striking visual contents.

The NEW 5TH EDITION has been revised to accommodate issues still being debated by historians. Among these issues are: the social and political crises of the 14th and 17th centuries; the exact nature of the renaissance; the nature of economic revolutions; and the effects of slavery on the enslaved. Also includes material on the early and mid-19th century and extensive discussions of contemporary political and economic developments.

by Crane Brinton; John B. Christopher, University of Rochester; and Robert Lee Wolff, Harvard University.

The Five Volumes have been divided for specific courses as follows for January 1976 publication

Two distinguished author-teachers join a famous writing team, to make this highly successful book even better ...

Hofstadter • Miller • Aaron Jordan • Litwack

The NEW 4th Edition (1976) of THE UNITED STATES — has added the teaching experience and scholarship of two distinguished historians, Professors Winthrop D. Jordan and Leon S. Litwack, to this highly successful book, and has been extensively revised.

"Not only is the book brought up to date chronologically; every subject dealt with has been reviewed or even newly introduced with the best of modern work in mind." — William Miller.

Co-authors Litwack and Jordan contribute not only their expertise in the pre- and post- Civil War periods, but also in:

- enlarged discussions throughout on social history and special groups in American history.
- greater emphasis on the daily lives and experiences of the ordinary participants in our culture, especially those who have generally been excluded from historical accounts — the minorities, women, poor, the ordinary soldiers in the armed forces, and those on the lines of poverty and assembly.
- fresh consideration of student needs in written and visual presentations, creating greater readability.
- examination of the temper of modern times with a chapter on recent cultural history. The United States, 4th Edition concludes with a review and interpretation of the events of the last few years: Watergate and Indochina in particular.

by Richard Hofstadter, William Miller, Daniel Aaron, Harvard University; Winthrop D. Jordan and Leon F. Litwack, both of the University of California, Berkeley.
