The Association planned to hold its 135th annual meeting January 7–10, 2021, in Seattle, Washington. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, it will be impossible to meet in Seattle as originally planned. The best available information from public health authorities and medical experts suggests that the global health crisis will not be sufficiently resolved by January. With regret, the Association has concluded that canceling the face-to-face meeting is necessary to maintain the health and safety of our members, our staff, and the public.

We do not make this decision lightly, as we know how important the annual meeting is to the discipline. Members rely on the opportunity to meet in person to build professional relationships, share their scholarship, and engage in professional development. While we will not be able to connect in person, the AHA staff is preparing a variety of web-based programming over 2020–21 to continue to bring together our communities of historians to further advance our mission.

This PDF program documents all sessions accepted by the 2021 Program Committee and the affiliated societies. Anyone who was expecting to deliver a prepared presentation will have the opportunity to post written remarks on the AHA website. Canceled conference presentations should be included on CVs and listed as “accepted for the 2021 AHA annual meeting.”

Land Acknowledgment

The American Historical Association acknowledges that this year we would have met on the historic and contemporary lands of the Duwamish, Suquamish, and Muckleshoot nations and other Coast Salish peoples who call the waters and coastline of the Salish Sea home.

Virtual AHA

Virtual AHA is a series of online opportunities to bring together communities of historians, build professional relationships, discuss scholarship, and engage in professional and career development. A service to our members as they navigate the current emergency, Virtual AHA provides a forum for discussing common issues, building research networks, and broadening and maintaining our professional community in dire circumstances. It also provides resources for online teaching and other professional and career development. We are creating a variety of content to help historians connect, while helping us learn more about what our members want and need.

Virtual AHA will run through June 2021. Virtual AHA incorporates the AHA Colloquium, our name for content drawn from the canceled 2021 annual meeting. It also includes an online teaching forum, career development workshops, a series of History Behind the Headlines webinars, National History Center programming, and more. These programs are free and AHA membership is not required to register. Many of the webinars will be available for later viewing on the AHA's YouTube Channel.

See historians.org/VirtualAHA for details.

Programming Content Streams

- AHA Colloquium: Bringing together communities of historians who ordinarily meet face-to-face at our annual meeting through web-based programming.

- History Behind the Headlines: Webinars featuring prominent historians discussing the histories behind current events and the importance of history and historical thinking to public policy and culture.
- AHA Online Teaching Forum: Virtual events designed to help historians plan for teaching in online and hybrid environments.
- Virtual Career Development: Professional development webinars and workshops emphasizing career exploration and skill development for graduate students and early-career historians.
- Virtual Seminars for Department Chairs: Virtual seminars designed to support department chairs through the transitions and uncertainties resulting from COVID-19. Webinars will be small group discussions (capped at 10 participants) and facilitated by an experienced department chair.
- National History Center Congressional Briefings: Virtual, nonpartisan briefings by leading historians on past events and policies that shape the issues facing Congress today.
- Washington History Seminar: Aims to facilitate understanding of contemporary affairs in light of historical knowledge from a variety of perspectives. A joint venture of the National History Center of the AHA and the History and Public Policy Program of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars.

Virtual Exhibit Hall

The AHA Virtual Exhibit Hall launches on October 1 and will be available online through June 2021. The Virtual Exhibit Hall provides an opportunity to learn about the latest historical scholarship, take advantage of publisher discounts, and network with editors and press staff. If you normally look forward to the exhibits at the annual meeting, the Virtual Exhibit Hall offers a similar experience from the comfort of your home. Best of all, no name badge is necessary: the Virtual Exhibit Hall is free and open to the public. Check it out at historians.org/ExhibitHall.

Code of Professional Conduct

The AHA is committed to creating and maintaining a harassment-free environment for all participants in the Association's activities, regardless of their actual or perceived sex, gender, gender expression, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, race, ethnicity, nationality, ability, socioeconomic status, veteran status, age, or religion. All members and participants, including employers, contractors, vendors, volunteers, and guests, are expected to engage in consensual and respectful behavior and to preserve AHA's standard of professionalism at all times. The policy pertains to all venues where officially sanctioned AHA conferences, meetings, and other activities occur.

Details, including procedures for addressing violations of the statement, are posted at historians.org/conduct.

AHA PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS

American Historical Association Presidential Address

Slow History

Mary Lindemann, University of Miami

All historians realize how much COVID-19 has interfered with our scholarship and teaching. Everything has slowed down, from preparing for classes, to doing research, to completing the simplest tasks of everyday life. Yet in the upheaval we are currently experiencing, and as we struggle to remain productive, perhaps we should also seize the opportunity to think more deeply about the “doing” of history and to isolate what really matters in research, writing, and instruction. Scholars in other disciplines have been doing so for several years, and some have even issued manifestos like the one advocating for “slow science.” Should we follow their lead? “Is going slow good for historians as well?”

The presidential address will be available on the AHA’s YouTube channel in early January 2021.

17. Seminars on Chronological Age as a Category of Historical Analysis, Part 1: Age and Empire

Organized by the AHA Research Division

The American Historical Association is soliciting scholars who are currently pursuing research that engages age as a category of analysis. Linked with the recent roundtable on chronological age in the American Historical Review (April 2020), we invite participants to three seminars that will explore age as a category of analysis. Each seminar will have a different theme—consent, empire, and gender—and will be led by two scholars whose work appears in the roundtable and who specialize on that topic. The two conveners of the seminars (and editors of the roundtable)—Corinne T. Field and Nicholas L. Syrett—will select approximately 12 to 16 participants, with an eye toward including graduate students and early career scholars. Those accepted will attend all three seminars, with three or four having short pieces workshopped in each of the three seminars. Details will be posted at historians.org/VirtualAHA.

We expect that all participants will have read the AHR roundtable by the time of the seminar and will also be prepared to offer feedback on fellow participants' work.

Facilitators: Corrie Decker, University of California, Davis
 Bianca Premo, Florida International University

This is part of a multisession workshop. See also sessions 18 and 19.

13. The New Western History, 40 Years On

Chair: Lynn M. Hudson, University of Illinois at Chicago

Panel: Anne Hyde, University of Oklahoma
 Patricia Nelson Limerick, University of Colorado Boulder
 Louis S. Warren, University of California, Davis
 Joshua L. Reid, University of Washington, Seattle

14. Thinking Catastrophe Times

Chair: Helmut Puff, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor

Papers: Catastrophe in Classical Political Economy: Revisiting Famines in Colonial India and Ireland in the Long 19th Century
 Manu Goswami, New York University

18. Seminars on Chronological Age as a Category of Historical Analysis, Part 2: Age and Consent

Organized by the AHA Research Division

The American Historical Association is soliciting scholars who are currently pursuing research that engages age as a category of analysis. We expect that all participants will have read the AHR roundtable by the time of the seminar and will also be prepared to offer feedback on fellow participants' work.

Facilitators: Ishita Pande, Queens University
Nicholas L. Syrett, University of Kansas

This is part of a multisession workshop. See also sessions 17 and 19.

19. Seminars on Chronological Age as a Category of Historical Analysis, Part 3: Age and Gender

Organized by the AHA Research Division

The American Historical Association is soliciting scholars who are currently pursuing research that engages age as a category of analysis. The Stanton Foundation congratulates winners of its ‘Applying History to Clarify the COVID-19 Challenge’ Contest

Inspired by the AHA’s ‘Statement Regarding Historians and the COVID-19 Public Health Crisis’, the Stanton Foundation launched a ten-week Contest last spring to identify the best new Applied History articles that illuminated the coronavirus challenge and identified lessons or clues for policymakers.

Weekly prize winners:

Mary Eschelbach Hansen and Bradley Hansen “Making it easier to declare bankruptcy could avert economic catastrophe”, Washington Post, 4/24/20

Andrew Ehrhardt, “Disease and Diplomacy in the 19th Century” War on the Rocks, 4/30/20

Douglas Bell and Conrad Crane, “Korean War Economic Mobilization Is More Relevant To The Current Pandemic Than World War II” War on the Rocks, 5/6/20

George H. Nash, “The Coronavirus Pandemic of 2020 in Historical Perspective” National Review, 5/11/20

Michael T. Osterholm and Mark Olshaker, “Chronicle of a Pandemic Foretold” Foreign Affairs, 5/21/20

Walter Scheidel, “The Spanish Flu Didn’t Wreck the Global Economy” Foreign Affairs, 5/28/20

Eleanor Russell and Martin Parker, “How pandemics past and present fuel the rise of mega-corporations” The Conversation, 6/3/20

Jim Harris, “Pandemics: Today and Yesterday” Origins: Current Events in Historical Perspective, 6/15/20

Marc-Michael Blum and Peter Neumann, “Corona and Bioterrorism: How Serious is the Threat?” War on the Rocks, 6/22/20

A. Wess Mitchell and Charles Ingrao, “Emperor Joseph’s Solution to Coronavirus” The Wall Street Journal, 4/6/2020

Andrew Ehrhardt, “Disease and Diplomacy in the 19th Century” War on the Rocks, 4/30/20

As the AHA Statement affirms, “the work that historians do...is especially important in troubled times when facts, evidence, and context are imperative to generating effective and humane public policy.”

DIGITAL PUBLISHING INITIATIVE

Stanford University Press, with generous support from The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, is proud to announce new and forthcoming publications in our digital publishing initiative.

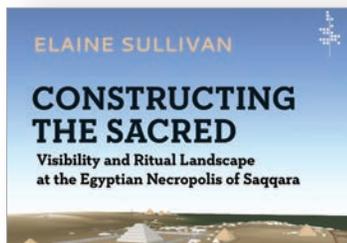

Feral Atlas
The More-Than-Human Anthropocene
Edited by Anna L. Tsing, Jennifer Deger, Alder Keleman Saxena, and Feifei Zhou

“To fix a problem we have to understand it. Feral Atlas helps us do just that. It illuminates the ways in which we are shaping the world and gives us the information we need to be able to act.”

—Annie Leonard, Executive Director, Greenpeace USA

Constructing the Sacred
Visibility and Ritual Landscape at the Egyptian Necropolis of Saqqara
Elaine A. Sullivan

“Unimaginable in any other format, this publication is a one-stop shop for our attempt to untangle the significance of Saqqara over time.”

—Peter Der Manuelian, Harvard University

Explore now at constructingthesacred.org

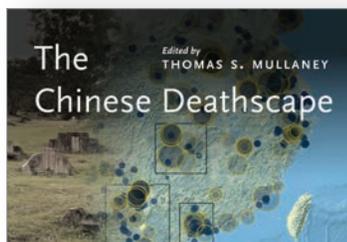

Black Quotidian
Everyday History in African-American Newspapers
Matthew F. Delmont

“Bringing attention to the under-recognized significance of the black press and its impact on everyday black peoples’ lives, Black Quotidian explores new territory for digital history and the public humanities.”

—Kim Gallon, Purdue University

Explore now at blackquotidian.org

The Chinese Deathscape
Grave Reform in Modern China
Edited by Thomas S. Mullaney

“Stanford University Press’s investment in publishing works that make real use of online visualization has paid off with The Chinese Deathscape. This combination of historical narratives, maps, and data opens up new ways of thinking for scholars and their audiences alike.”

—Peter Bol, Harvard University

Careers for History Majors

A new publication from the American Historical Association

We must “uphold at every possible turn the inherent value of studying history.”

Elizabeth Leffeldt, former Vice President, AHA Teaching Division, Perspectives

Careers for History Majors conveys the value of the undergraduate study of history through clear graphs and informal prose. Readers will find hard data, practical advice, and answers to common questions for students and their parents.

Contributors explore the breadth of career options available to history majors and provide tools to help students get the most out of their degree.

The booklet also includes the personal stories of history majors who work in a range of occupations, including data analysis, finance, and the law. You'll find out what employers want and learn about the personal transformations that many history majors experience.

Contributors

Loren Collins • John Fea • Anne Hyde • Sarah Olzawski • Johann Neem • Claire Potter • John Rowe • Sarah Shurts • Paul Sturtevant • Frank Valadez

Reinforcing the value and utility of a history BA, Careers for History Majors is perfect for directors of undergraduate studies, career center advisers, prospective majors, and their parents.

HISTORICAL
ASSOCIATION

Join the world's largest community of historians

Become a member of the American Historical Association today.

The American Historical Association is a nonprofit membership organization founded in 1884 and incorporated by Congress in 1889 for the promotion of historical studies. The AHA provides leadership for the discipline by protecting academic freedom, developing professional standards, supporting scholarship and innovative teaching, and helping to sustain and enhance the work of historians. As the largest organization of professional historians in the world, the AHA represents more than 11,000 members and serves historians representing every historical period and geographical area in a wide variety of professions. The AHA is a trusted voice for history education, the professional work of historians, and the critical role of historical thinking in public life.

AMERICAN

Call for Proposals for the 135th Annual Meeting of the American Historical Association

The AHA's annual meeting is the largest yearly gathering of historians in the United States.

All historians are welcome and encouraged to submit proposals. The AHA also invites historically focused proposals from colleagues in related disciplines and from AHA affiliated societies. The Program Committee will consider all proposals that advance the study, teaching, and public presentation of history.

The Association seeks submissions on the histories of all places, periods, people, and topics; on the uses of diverse sources and methods, including digital history; and on theory and the uses of history itself in a wide variety of venues.

We invite proposals for sessions in a variety of formats and encourage lively interaction among presenters and with the audience.

Session Proposals

Sessions last for 90 minutes. Most sessions will be limited to four speakers plus a chair. The Program Committee will accept proposals for complete sessions only. We encourage organizers to build panels that bring together diverse perspectives.

Poster Proposals

The meeting will feature a poster session to allow historians to share their research through visual materials. Proposals for single, individual presentations may be submitted as posters.

The Program Committee welcomes proposals from all historians, whatever their institutional affiliation or status, and historians working outside the United States. With the exception of foreign scholars and those from other disciplines, all persons appearing on the program must be members of the AHA, although membership is not required to submit a proposal. All participants must register for the meeting when registration opens. The Association aspires to represent the full diversity of its membership at the annual meeting.

Electronic submission only, by midnight PST on February 15, 2021

Before applying, please review the annual meeting guidelines and more information at historians.org/proposals.

Questions about policies, modes of presentation, and the electronic submission process?

Contact annualmeeting@historians.org.

Questions about the content of proposals?

Contact Program Committee chair Mark Ravina, University of Texas, Austin (ravinaaha2022@gmail.com) and co-chair Margaret Salazar-Porzio, National Museum of American History (salazar-porzio@m.si.edu).
